Small Reaction to New York Bank Merger Failure Held Bright Factor SEE CHANGED ATTITUDE

Unemployment Remains Chief Business Problem Throughout U. S.

Washington—(CPA)—Although very little is being said publicly about the efforts of the government here to restore confidence and stabilize business, there is no doubt that much is going on in the way of informal effort to accelerate an economic recovery.

Events of the past week gave many officials a good deal to be nervous about, particularly with reference to the bank merger in New York which failed to materialize and which, it was thought here, would relieve much of the tension in the metropolis. Every encouragement was given the New York bankers who tried to reconstruct a tangled situation and certainly if a lesson was learned through the negotiations it was that rumors and reports about the condition of any financial institution, once they are circulated, make it difficult to prevent runs and conserve deposits.

The significant thing about the episode in New York is that it, had practically no repercussion in other parts of the country. This has led to the belief that the difficulties were discounted and, notwithstanding the lack of publicity about various situations that have been cured, the financial groups in different parts of the country seem to be well informed as to what are the problems overhauling the financial world.

Helps Restore Confidence
As each institution with frozen credits solves its problems either by merger or consolidation the rest of the financial world feels much better about it and a corresponding amount of confidence is restored. The general situation reflected by reports from all parts of the United States in the matter of bank finances is very good. Money is reported plentiful for legitimate purposes and while there is a

FATHER, SON HELD FOR SIX SLAYINGS

Elder Man Held for Questioning Despite Confession by Younger

Williston, N. D.—(CP)—A father and his son today stood formally charged with first degree murder for the slaying of a family of six persons.
The son, Charles Bannan, 22-year-old farmer, was in the county jail here, confessed killer of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Haven and their four children at the Haven farm near Schafer last February.
The father, James F. Bannan, retired farmer, was held at Toledo, Ore., awaiting arrival of North Dakota authorities to return him here. He was arrested Saturday at a tourist camp at Waldport, Ore.
While the son is alleged to have admitted that he alone killed the Havens after a quarrel over chores at the farm, State Attorney J. S. Taylor McKenney said today he planned to question the father regarding certain events contained in Charles' confession.

IOWA BANK CLOSES
Cherokee, Iowa—(P)—The First National bank of Cherokee closed its doors today. Officers of the bank blamed "frozen assets" as the reason. The bank was capitalized at $100,000. Deposits were estimated at $750,000. Officers said an attempt would be made to reorganize.

Dentist Used Poison In Treating Mrs. Shepard

Defense Witness Says Bichloride of Mercury Used in Mouth Wash

Kansas City, Kas.—(CP)—Prosecution charges that Major Charles A. Shepard fatally poisoned his wife with mercury were met with defense testimony in the army medical officer's murder trial today that another army medical corps officer used bichloride of mercury in treating Mrs. Shepard.

Major M. A. Rose, whose specialty is dentistry, testified that under his direction five or six plates of solution of bichloride of mercury was given Mrs. Shepard as a mouth wash up to the time of her death at Fort Riley, Kansas, in June 1929. He said Mrs. Shepard suffered from trench mouth.

"Do you know whether you killed her by your treatment?" District Attorney Sordius M. Brewster demanded in cross examining the witness.

C. L. Kargy of defense counsel, objected and the question was ruled out by the court without an answer from Major Rose.

Major Rose testified that he was called in Mrs. Shepard's case about two weeks before her death. At that time, he said, there was positive evidence of a trench mouth infection and none of mercury poisoning.

He said he prescribed the bichloride of mercury mouth wash and warned Mrs. Shepard, Shepard and the nurse, Clara Brown, the solution was poisonous and urged them to see that Mrs. Shepard did not swallow any. The mouth wash was prescribed to be used every two waking hours and was administered approximately two weeks up to the time of Mrs. Shepard's death, he testified.

Major Rose said the bottle, labelled "poison," was kept on a stand near the bed and was in easy reach of the patient, who, it was brought out in the testimony of Major J. C. Dye, Fort Riley area specialist, told him during her illness.

"Why don't you let me go. I won't get well anyhow," Major E. J. Strickler, medical officer at Fort Riley and specialist in psychiatry, testified that symptoms he found the night Mrs. Zenana Shepard was stricken with her fatal illness indicated she suffered from alcoholic poisoning.

Major Strickler was the first physician called to attend Mrs. Shepard who, the government contends, was poisoned by Shepard, so he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, young Antonio stenographer.

The defense previously had obtained testimony from Mrs. Zenana H. Curtis, 86-year-old grandmother of Mrs. Shepard, that the major's wife was a heavy drinker.

"The odor of alcohol was very strong on her breath," Major Strickler, a defense witness, said after describing her mental condition and appearance when he arrived at her bedside first on May 20, 1929, "I observed nothing that might be attributed to mercury except vomiting."

The search covered the converging sections of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.
A trusty and John Dyer, 17, son of George Dyer, jailer, were fired upon by the slayer, who, with his woman companion, about 25 years old, escaped in a small coupe bearing Kansas license tags.

Young Dyer, sitting with Bray, said one attack was without warning. The killer and his girl companion, he related, asked to see Bill Daggett of Joplin, Mo., who had been released Friday after questioning in a petty larceny case.

As Bray, acting jailer, turned to the jail record, the man seized Bray's revolver.
"Here," Bray cried, "you can't do that."
The visitor shot three times when the turnkey attacked, two bullets piercing Bray's heart. Young Dyer fled to the jail arsenal. A bullet struck as he slammed the door.

The slayer and the girl seized Bray's keys, unlocked one door and raced upstairs, where seven women were confined. However, after rattling the corridor door their moment, the couple fled.

ONE MISSING, FOUR PERISH IN DISASTER

All Aboard Leap Into Atlantic When Fire Follows Explosion

Miami Beach, Fla.—(CP)—Four persons lost their lives in the explosion and fire aboard the glass bottom excursion boat Eureka II yesterday, an unofficial check disclosed. One other person was unaccounted for, and 130 of the 135 passengers on the boat had been brought safely to shore.

Three bodies were brought here and another was reported aboard a disabled fishing craft somewhere south of Miami Beach.

The bodies brought here were those of H. C. Grimm, 60, McCook, Neb., a passenger; Clarence Vine, 30, Haverhill, Mass., a deck hand, and Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, 45, Miami, whose identity was not established until today.

Skippers of rescue boats, which returned here shortly before noon after an all-night search, reported finding only small bits of wreckage floating on the water in the vicinity of the disaster.

The Eureka II, which was returning from an excursion to the marine gardens, sank in more than 20 feet of water after the explosion and resulting fire had forced all to jump into the ocean.

A scene of wild confusion, attended by the shouts of women and children and the music of a three-piece orchestra which tried courageously to stem the panic, was sketched by survivors of the capacity crowd that jammed the two decks of the 105-foot boat. Smoke from the engine room, on the craft's return trip here, they said, first gave notice of the mishap and was followed by three explosions.

Four in Hospitals
Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chapman, Akron, Ohio, were treated for exposure at hospitals.
Heroic stories of the rapid rescue operations were numerous. Sighting the fire through binoculars, P. W. Miller, retired grocery executive of Cincinnati, abandoned a pleasure trip and brought 83 of the survivors ashore on his yacht, the Lois Ann. He related how his guests and crew "worked like troopers pulling men, women and children aboard."

Some estimated that 20 to 25 children were passengers on the Eureka II. The crew of the yacht Dorothea, which picked up 30 persons, took a baby from the arms of a father who said "save my baby" when he learned the Dorothea could not care for additional survivors. A child was tossed to the deck of a fishing tug and brought here and reunited with its parents, rescued by another craft.

First Mate Al Styles, brother of Captain Clarence Styles of the Eureka II, said all passengers had ample time to don life preservers after the first explosion occurred and that there were many more preservers than there were passengers.

"A blast of flame swept past me while I was in the engine room," he said. "There was a call for fire extinguishers and the chief engineer was pumping water at the time the first explosion occurred. My brother headed the boat into shoal water, which accounts for a small loss of life."

The boat was valued at $75,000.
FORMER FILM ACTRESS DIES
Los Angeles—(P)—A cablegram received here today said Mrs. Stephen C. Millett, the former Diane Ellis, Hollywood motion picture actress, died in Madras, India. The actress was married in Paris, France, two months ago to Stephen C. Millett, young millionaire.

A roving police car followed the machine occupied by the trio, and attempted to stop it to question the occupants. They sped away, however. The police followed, firing several shots at the tires. Finally they fired one shot through the rear window and believe they injured one of the men. The woman screamed and the men stopped the car and fled.

The woman told police one of the men was a Kenosha "stick-up man." The name she gave, however, was thought by Kenosha police to have been an alias. They were unable to locate it in their files.

GLEN HAVEN ROBBERS SENTENCED TO PRISON
Lancaster, Wis.—(P)—William Charles Clifton, and John Walker, Glen Haven bank robbers, who pleaded guilty in circuit court, were sentenced to from 15 to 25 years in state prison today. Joe Ashby, a third member of the party, will stand trial during the February term of court.

Loescher Is Named For Postal Job

Stephen M. Peeters Is Nominated for Postmaster at Little Chute

Washington—President Hoover today sent to the senate the nominations of Clarence A. Loescher for postmaster at Little Chute, and Wallace M. Constock for postmaster at Oconto. Postmaster Constock was renominated last spring but Senator John J. Blaine blocked his confirmation then. No nomination was made for the postmastership at Appleton which has been technically vacant for several years. W. H. Zuchlik serving as acting postmaster.

O. K. 4 NOMINEES TO POWER COMMISSION

Senate Group Protests Action on Prospect from North Carolina

Washington—(P)—The senate interstate commerce committee today approved four of President Hoover's nominations to the power commission but postponed action on the fifth, Frank R. McNinch of North Carolina.

Those approved were George Otis Smith, Maine, chairman; Ralph B. Williamson, Washington; Marcel Garsaud, Louisiana; and C. J. Draper, Wyoming.

There were votes in committee against several of the nominations and indications that at least two would be opposed on the senate floor.

Williamson and Draper were approved without objection. The vote on Garsaud was 13 to 4. Smith was approved 11 to 1, but several members of the committee who did not vote against him indicated they might oppose him in the senate.

Consideration of the McNinch nomination was postponed until tomorrow, to await the arrival of the newly appointed senator from North Carolina, Cameron Morrison.

Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, cast the only vote against Smith. This was not a formal vote and other members of the committee who did not formally oppose the nomination said they wanted to investigate farther and might oppose Smith in the senate.

BULLETINS

Waukegan, Ill.—(P)—Count Felix von Luckner, German "Sea Devil," was seriously injured today when the automobile in which he was motoring to Chicago skidded on the snow-covered highway north of here and overturned. He suffered a fractured right collar bone and several other injuries.

Two of Von Luckner's three companions in the car were injured less seriously, suffering cuts and bruises. They were his secretary, Mr. Englestrom, and Mrs. Rose Miller Moselle of Chicago. The latter's husband was unhurt.

Washington—(P)—The house today passed and sent to the senate the bill by the late Congressman Florian Lampert of Oshkosh, Wis., to authorize a survey of the Fox river in Wisconsin with a view to flood control work on it.

Larger Merchant Marine Needed For Naval Parity

Washington—(P)—The utility of hoping that the United States navy ever would equal that of Great Britain without a development of the merchant marine was asserted today before the house naval committee by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

WATSON GIVES SUPPORT TO RELIEF PLAN

Indiana Senator Backs Hoover—Denies "Cooperation" Breaks Down

Washington—(P)—Senator Watson, the Republican leader, today defended President Hoover's drought relief program in the senate.

The Indiana, who has differed with the president on some matters of late, denied the program of cooperation promised by leaders of both parties on emergency relief had broken down.

Taking the floor soon after the $116,000,000 public works bill had been sent to conference and just before consideration of the treasury appropriation bill was begun, the majority chairman said the president was "amply justified" in his recommendations.

Meanwhile, the administration's $30,000,000 drought relief program was laid before the house by Chairman Haugen of the agriculture committee, with the request that it be considered under suspension of the rules.

Watson specified that he recognized congress' right to raise the sum recommended by the president, "if it saw fit."

"However," he said the president had based his recommendation on statements made to him by the American Red Cross to the effect that that organization could take care of the hungry drought sufferers.

Therefore, Watson said, no recommendation was made by the president for an appropriation for loans with which to buy food.

DELAY ON RESOLUTION

Washington—(P)—The senate today postponed consideration of the LaFollette resolution which declared relief of human suffering should take precedence over the interests of wealthy taxpayers.

Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, asked for the postponement, pointing out there was only half an hour for its consideration under senate rules when it came up. That would not provide time for adequate debate, he said.

The resolution was introduced by him after President Hoover's statement last week attacking relief proposals which were beyond the program prepared by the administration. Too liberal appropriations could not be made, the president said, without threatening an increase in taxes.

RADIO CHANNELS NOT CLOSED TO THOMPSON

Washington—(P)—The radio commission today denied the request of Robert L. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, that it prohibit the use of Chicago radio stations in furthering Mayor Thompson's "Prosperity drive."

Randolph had complained Thompson's contest plan was a lottery and asked that radio stations be prohibited from allowing their facilities for use in it.

Counsel for the mayor obtained a ruling from postoffice officials that the proposals did not constitute a lottery.

Rebel Aviators Flee After Proclaiming Republic in Circulars TROOPS REMAIN LOYAL

Ramon Franco, Idol of Spain, Among Fugitives Sought by Officials

Paris—(P)—The Paris office of the Associated Press attempted to telephone to Madrid early this afternoon but was informed by the Paris central that direct communication to the Spanish capital was interrupted. A number of American banks that tried to telephone to their Madrid branches received the same answer.

Madrid—(P)—Another revolutionary movement burst upon Spain today, but it was shut down. The government asserted in a report that the situation was under control, the rebellious elements had been dispersed and that the army everywhere had remained overwhelmingly loyal.

The new revolt had its base at a government airdrome near Madrid from which rebel pilots flew over the capital proclaiming a republic in circulars showered upon the city. Loyal troops, the government announced, captured the airport and put the rebels to flight. One of these, it was said, was Ramon Franco, the picturesque young aviator who became the ideal of Spain through his exploits in the air.

Martial law was declared throughout the kingdom but the government emphatically denied that the rebels had fled to the mountains in severalities. The most serious incident of this kind, it was reported, was at San Sebastian where civilian rioters invaded the governor's offices and beat some of the guards.

Troops patrolled the streets and of Madrid and the cabinet remained in emergency session all day but the authorities apparently expected no disorders. Franco and his associates on the rebellion were reported to have fled by air to the Portuguese coast. Meanwhile, civil guards, troops and police were guarding all highways out of the country to prevent any escape.

News was scarce under a field censorship. It was reported that troops in the Madrid garrison were wavering. Lower riots flared up in Bilbao and San Sebastian, accounting for three deaths.

Alcala Zamora, a cabinet minister in 1923, was proclaimed president of the republic by the rebels at Bilbao. King Alfonso kept to his castle in Madrid.

Proclamations Unsigned
The proclamations dropped by the aviators were not signed and gave no details of the projected Republican government. Republican elements in Madrid, however, said that everywhere representatives of the new government had been appointed and that the announcement that the government had executed two officers yesterday was the signal for the general uprising.

The manifesto from the air read: "Last night the Republican movement began throughout Spain. The people and the army have brought it about. News has been received from the provinces confirming success of the movement as expected."

"To forestall the danger of passions being unleashed, to protect the innocent and to show the whole world that the Spanish people know how to rule their own destinies in accordance with modern ideas, it is necessary for you to join the movement and thus prevent suffering."

"If from weakness or lack of civic consciousness you oppose this movement, you will be the first victim. If you do not submit your barracks will be bombarded within the hour."

A rigid censorship has been placed on the drama of the proceedings of Friday and Saturday from the country and in many localities there has been a sharp response in increased Republican sympathy. Although only two have been executed orders, perhaps a score, are under death sentences, sentences which it is believed generally will never be carried out, the government fearing to add fuel to the flames of discontent.

Two Are Executed
The two to die were Captains Fernan Galan and Garcia Hernandez, reserve officers deprived of their regular army standing after the Cuda Real uprising and subsequent artillery corps' disbandment. A third principal in the abortive revolt, Pio Diaz, Jaca business man, died in an unexplained manner during recapture of the palace by loyal troops as he unfurled a Republican banner, containing a purple band in addition to the red and gold of the monarchy. It was the first time the banner had been flown publicly in Spain since the republic in 1931.

Both Galan and Garcia died. After courtmartial they taken from the courthouse.

PHONE COMPANY TO SPEND 10 MILLION

Appleton Among Cities Included in 1931 Construction Program

Milwaukee—(P)—The Wisconsin Telephone company's plan to spend approximately $10,000,000 for replacements, betterments and extensions of its equipment and buildings during 1931 was announced today by William R. McGovern, president.

Besides erection of a new "hilltop" exchange building and installation of dial equipment in two other exchanges in Milwaukee, major installations of equipment will be made at Appleton, Green Bay, Madison, Manitowish, Oshkosh, Racine and Eau Claire, the announcement said.

"The appropriation includes additions to the telephone plant at numerous exchanges in the state," the announcement continued. "Expenditure of $2,000,000 has been authorized for expansion of long distance facilities in Milwaukee and the state. Expansion of toll facilities will include completion of the Appleton-Stevens Point cable now under construction and extension of the toll cable between Stevens Point, Eau Claire and Minneapolis. Principal among the cities to receive additional long distance central office equipment are Appleton, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, La Crosse, Madison, Oshkosh and Stevens Point."

The company provides service now through 368,700 telephones, "representing a gain of 10,000 in 1930," said the announcement. Companies interconnected with the company bring the total number of telephones in the state to 570,900.

ALLEGED BOOTLEG KING BELIEVED KIDNAPED

Chicago—(P)—Missing from his home in Chicago Heights where he is reputed "bootleg king," James Ward today apparently was in the hands of kidnapers who were reported to be demanding a $50,000 ransom for his release.

Four men seized Ward yesterday as he walked from the garage in the rear of his home. Chief of Police Harry B. Stratford of Chicago Heights expressed fears that Ward's henchmen might attempt to retaliate. It was the second time he had been kidnaped. He was abducted in 1927 but released without a demand for $20,000 ransom having been met.

ATTEMPT TO DESTROY 2 DOUKHOBOR SCHOOLS

Nelson, B. C.—(P)—Alleged attempts to bomb and burn two Doukhobor schools in the Grand Forks district were made over the weekend. An improvised bomb was found yesterday in the basement of the Russian religious sect's Fruitova school. The fuse had died out.

A burning candle attached to an oil soaked rope and other material was found Saturday night under steps of the Outlook school.

The bomb at Fruitova consisted of an oil can filled with about 15 pounds of nitroglycerine and dynamite.

PUBLISH NAMES OF POOR

Oshkosh—(P)—Publication of the names of all persons applying for city aid was ordered here today by George Oaks, vice mayor, on the ground that many not in actual need had received free potatoes from the city. Oaks overrode the objections of Mayor Taylor Brown after 15 tons of potatoes were given away to 200 persons.

SALESMAN SAM

Is back again! Yes, Sir, our old friend "Salesman Sam," is with us again. You'll find him with his daily work-out "Among the Classifieds" today and every day. Sam must have been to Patagonia or some other distant place trying to check up on Major Hoople's stories but he's back again and doing business at the old stand.

Heavy Production Held Chief Cause Of High Living Standard

FURTHER RISE IN PROSPERITY IS PREDICTED

Lamont Cheered by "Practically No Cuts in Wages by Employers"

Washington—(P)—An unbroken advance in American productivity was cited by Secretary Lamont as the fundamental cause of rising standards of living.

In this factor, he found "conclusive evidence" that business progress is not wiped out by periods of depression. This cheering word went to congress in his annual report.

It has marked a permanent achievement," he said, "and when the present recession is over, the same upward movement will unquestionably be resumed."

The causes at work are for the most part of a cumulative character, so that it may be said that each forward step leads to another step in the same direction.

The report dealt with the fiscal year which closed June 30. It included a survey of economic trends and a resume of the commerce department's activities.

Lamont said it was a "noteworthy fact that practically no cuts in wages have been made by employers as a result of the recession of business."

Keep Up Buying Power

This he saw as contrasting sharply with the practices of previous slack periods and as evidence of a widespread conviction that "permanent progress in prosperity is dependent on liberal wages and consequent large buying power on the part of the masses of the people."

Greater skill and intelligence among the workers, improved methods of organization and management, advances in science and invention, an increased use of capital as aid to labor, were listed as the causes of increased output per workman.

Gains in personal productivity have ranged from 57 to 115 per cent in the various branches of economic endeavor over a period of thirty years. Gains of 10 to 40 per cent were noted for the last decade.

Among the major economic phenomena of the fiscal year, the commerce secretary referred to a "very considerable decline" in commodity prices, which broke "the steadiness that characterized the price levels of recent years. The drop ran all the way through the commodity list but was especially marked in farm products."

A decrease in the value of crops was noted, together with an increase in that of animal products.

In the field of transportation, increased efficiency was noted, with railroads "handling more traffic with fewer employees, fewer freight cars, and fewer locomotives than in any other year of similar business volume."

Fewer Loans Abroad

The security markets dominated financial conditions, Lamont said, and loans for the sale and purchase of securities were generally regarded as having had "a most disturbing effect" on the money market. A decline in American loans abroad was noted.

The secretary mentioned at several points in his report that business

FINE DRIVER FOR PARKING OFFENSE

Chester Roloff, route 2, Appleton, was fined $1 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty of parking his car in a prohibited zone on W. College-ave Saturday. He was arrested by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer. Victor Rank, 427 W. College-ave, was arrested on a similar charge but has not yet appeared in court. She also was arrested by Officer Arndt.

ELECT NEW HEAD OF MOUNT OLIVE CHURCH

Oscar Boldt Is Named President at Annual Meeting of Congregation

Oscar Boldt was elected president of Mount Olive Lutheran church at the annual meeting in the afternoon. Approximately 200 people attended the meeting. Mr. Boldt succeeds Herman C. Moeller.

Other new officers elected were: David Wiese, vice president; John Hegner, financial secretary; H. C. Moeller, trustee for three years; and Louis Schmidt, trustee for one year.

Following the election of officers, the new council appointed Charles Bohl, treasurer; Herman Zschaeche, recording secretary; William Mueller, Sunday school superintendent; and Earl Kraemer, librarian. Retiring officers in addition to Mr. Moeller are: Orville Hegner, vice president; Armin Knoke, financial secretary; Louis Freude, trustee and Theodore Glaser.

TROOP 11 SCOUTS TO DELIVER BASKETS

Plans for distributing eight baskets of food to needy families for Christmas will be discussed at a meeting of Troop 11 boy scouts of McKinley Junior high school in the school building at 7:30 Monday evening, according to Walter Fox, scoutmaster. Each of the four patrols of the troop are making plans to fill two baskets, which will probably be distributed on Christmas day. The troop distributed eight baskets last year.

depression had been world wide and said that in several foreign countries recession had begun even earlier than in the United States.

Efforts to decrease waste in industry, a home building campaign conducted on a national scale, increased service to business both at home and abroad and continued service to commercial aviation were cited among the activities of the department.

Its services to aviation were given as the examination of aircraft and airmen for license, the maintenance of the federal airways system, assistance to communities in the selection of airports, determining the causes of accidents, and furnishing the public with information on civil aeronautics.

"Free from the uncertainties of inflated securities, free from over enthusiastic support and activity by elements not thoroughly schooled in the economics of manufacture, production, and marketing," Lamont said, "commercial aeronautics stands today as a young industry with bright prospects, provided it follows the same course that has marked the success of the older established industries and institutions."

Divorced 28 Years, They Re-Wed

After being divorced for 28 years, John W. Meisner, 79, and his former wife, Anna Meisner, 62, have decided that the love they gave up was the best—so the other day they were re-married in Cleveland, Ohio. First married in 1892, they were divorced in 1902, and each re-married. Meisner's wife died a few years later, and recently when he heard that his ex-wife had divorced her second husband he looked her up.

Search For Al Capone As His Sister Becomes Bride

Chicago—(P)—Wedding bells rang for Maifada Capone, 18, sister of Alphonse Capone and John J. Marti yesterday, but whether the gang chief was close enough to hear them remained an unanswered question.

There were unconfirmed rumors that Capone, who is listed No. 1 on Chicago roll of "public enemies" was among those present, well protected by guards. None, however, could be found who would admit having seen him, giving rise to further speculation as to whether he would appear in federal court today to answer a contempt citation for failure to appear last winter for questioning about his income.

The wedding took place amid scenes of pomp in St. Mary Catholic church in suburban Cicero, jammed with 4,000 persons while another thousand or more stood outside in the snow and lashed to catch a

ARRANGE PLANS FOR FORUM DINNER MEET

The first of a series of forum dinner meetings of the chamber of commerce will be held Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, at Conway hotel, it has been announced by the committee in charge. The first meeting is to be sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

B. J. Rohan is general chairman of the forum committee and Joseph Plank is in charge of the program group. The Lions and Rotary clubs also will sponsor similar meetings.

Fancy Xmas Trees. Same as we've always had. Prices reasonable. Pietie's Gro. Phone 511 and 251.

The groom is a brother of Frank Diamond, who with Alphonse and Ralph Capone is listed by the Chicago Crime commission as a "public enemy."

WOMAN HURT WHEN CAR SKIDS, TIPS ON SIDE IN DITCH

Mrs. J. J. Laird, Black Creek, Suffers Injuries in Accident

Mrs. J. J. Laird, Black Creek, is in St. Elizabeth hospital here with injuries received when the car in which she was riding skidded on the slippery pavement on Highway 47 about four miles north of Appleton at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and tipped over in the ditch. She suffered cuts and bruises about her head and feet and a possible injury to her back.

The car was driven by Dr. J. J. Laird. Robert Laird also was in the car. Dr. Laird and Robert suffered only minor injuries. The car was damaged.

Mrs. Marcella Recker, 20, 519 W. Commercial-st, ruptured an ear drum and was cut and bruised about the head and body when the car in which she was riding with Ray Kieck, 1824 S. Law-st, collided with another machine at the corner of Appleton and Commercial-sts about 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Kieck was driving south on Appleton-st when his car and one driven by Edith Fellows, 318 W. Winnebago-st, which was going east on Pacific-st, collided. Pearl Johnson, 719 N. State-st, also was in the Fellows' car. Kieck's machine was badly damaged and a rear wheel was broken off the Fellows car. Mrs. Recker was taken to her home where she is being treated.

Miss Alice Morawek, 18, 338 W. Eighth-st, was slightly bruised when she was struck by a car driven by George H. Heule, 523 S. River-st, about 4:30 Saturday afternoon at the corner of College-ave and Walnut-st. The girl was crossing College-ave, going south on Walnut-st, when she was hit by Heule's car as he was going east on College-ave and turned to go south on Walnut-st.

SEEK BIDS ON TANK CAR OF GASOLINE

Bids on a tank car of gasoline for the highway department are to be received by Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, up to Tuesday noon. The bids will be opened by Mr. Appleton and the contract will be let immediately if the prices are satisfactory. The gasoline is to be delivered for use at once.

MAYERHOFF TO SPEAK AT BOOSTER MEETING

HIGHWAY CREWS PUT CINDERS ON ROAD

Two crews of county highway workmen Saturday spread cinders on slippery spots on county and state highways. Approaches to arterial highways, curves and hills were given special attention, according to Frank Appleton, highway commissioner. A county truck was kept busy dumping piles of cinder along the road at those spots where they can be used when the road becomes slippery. Mr. Appleton said this service would be continued all winter.

MAN KILLED WHEN BOMB EXPLODES

Wife Critically Injured—Thought Package Was Christmas Gift

Shickshinny, Pa.—(P)—Finding what apparently was a Christmas package on his porch yesterday, Joseph Mastekas, 49, a miner, rushed into the house with it and called his wife. While they were unwrapping the tinseled red and green paper, the package exploded. State police said the package contained a bomb. Mastekas was blown into another room, his body torn and twisted. He was killed instantly. His wife, her left arm almost severed, and her body covered with burns, fell near the table, where the package blew to bits. Part of the rear of the house was torn away.

Three daughters, asleep on the second floor when the explosion occurred, were uninjured. State police today were holding a suspect. They intimated a bomb might have been sent as the result of a neighborhood quarrel. They recalled dynamite was exploded in Mastekas' automobile about a year ago.

TAKE MORE TESTIMONY IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Additional testimony was taken in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday morning in a suit for divorce brought by Louis Pohlman, 42, town of Black Creek, against his wife, 35, an asylum inmate. Mr. Pohlman charges his wife was cruel and inhuman before her commitment to the asylum, because she abused him, didn't take care of her household duties and neglected their children. Mrs. Pohlman's guardian ad litem is opposing the divorce and charges relations with other women. The Pohlmans have seven children and were married Jun 17, 1914. The case started last week and was continued until today. It is expected to be completed this afternoon.

18 Homes Of Movie Stars Lost In Fire

Los Angeles—(P)—An explosion and fire destroyed the fashionable Malibu Beach homes of 18 motion picture players here early today. Fire officials tentatively estimated the loss at $800,000.

Film stars and other occupants of the houses were forced to flee in their night clothes.

Firemen of three stations, with film stars and other residents fought the flames for three hours before controlling them. The cause of the blast is unknown. Fanned by a brisk wind out of the north, the flames swept from house to house, sending occupants into the cold.

In addition to the residences, many expensive automobiles were destroyed.

Among the stars and other celebrities whose homes, valuable furnishings and automobiles were destroyed are Louise Fazenda, Marie Prevost, Allen Dwan, George De Silva, James Malcolm Taylor, and Oliver C. Marsh.

The fire, which gained headway allegedly due chiefly to inadequate fire fighting apparatus, was not brought under control until the wind veered to seaward.

The mystery of the blast, which occurred at 2:30 a. m., setting fire to the DeSilva home, was still unsolved.

hours after the flames were under control.

The finest residences in the colony were destroyed. A similar fire occurred in September, 1929, damaging the colony's residences, approximately $300,000.

ONLY 2.7 MILES OF NEW ROAD WILL BE BUILT IN COUNTY

Outagamie to Have Smallest Amount of New Highways in District in 1931

Only 2.7 miles of the 182 miles of road surfacing to be constructed in state highway division 8 next year, will be done in Outagamie county, according to a report from the division office at Green Bay. Outagamie county will receive the smallest amount of new roads next year of the 11 counties in the district.

The report indicates about 100 miles of new surfacing will be done, while about 82 miles will be "black top." The remaining 10 miles will be gravel.

About 25 miles of road surfacing is contemplated for Brown county, while about 13 miles will be surfaced in Shawano county, a like amount in Kewaunee county, approximately 11 miles in Manitowoc county and nearly 40 miles in Dodge county. Work is also contemplated in Marinette, Calumet, Oconto and Winnebago counties, the program indicates.

Program Tentative

While the program thus far is only tentative, there is assurance that practically all of the contemplated projects will be put through. Three or four of them depend for their inclusion in the final program on financing which has not been definitely settled, but which is almost certain to be secured. Plans for many of these projects are now being drawn and work on them will continue at the division office here during the winter months. The program as arranged at present by counties follows:

Brown county: State Trunk Highway 78, from Bay Settlement to Dyckesville, black top surfacing, 7.9 miles; State Trunk Highway 54, Green Bay to Oconto, concrete surfacing, 7.5 miles; U. S. Highway 41, Green Bay to De Pere, concrete surfacing for widening, 3 miles; County Trunk Highway "H," De Pere to the west county line, concrete surfacing, 6 miles.

Complete Route 78

Calumet county: State Trunk Highway 57, Hilbert-north county line, 2.3 miles of concrete surfacing; State Trunk Highway 55, Sherwood-north county line, 3.3 miles of concrete surfacing.

Dodge county: State Trunk Highway 78, from the south county line to Sturgeon Bay, concrete surfacing, 15.8 miles; State Trunk Highway 78, Institute to Sister Bay, black top surfacing, 24 miles.

Kewaunee county: State Trunk Highway 54, west county line-Rio Creek, 3.1 miles concrete surfacing; State Trunk Highway 163, Luxemburg connection, concrete surfacing, 1 mile; State Trunk Highway 78, Dyckesville to the north county line, 2.9 miles concrete surfacing.

Manitowoc county: U. S. Highways 10 and 141, four corners, concrete surfacing, 3 miles; same highways, Rosemere grade separation, 3 miles, concrete; State Trunk Highway 32, Kiel to the south county line, concrete surfacing, 4.2 miles; County Trunk "A," St. Nazianz to Kiel, concrete surfacing 3.8 miles.

Marinette county: State Trunk Highway 64, Marinette to Pound, concrete surfacing 9.7 miles; U. S. Highway 141, Crivitz to Niagara, black top surfacing, 40.5 miles; State Trunk Highway 64, Pound to Marinette, 11 miles, black top surfacing.

Oconto county: State Trunk Highway 23, Gillett-south county line, gravel surfacing, 3.1 miles.

Outagamie county: State Trunk Highway 76, Shiocton-Bear Creek, gravel surfacing, 1 mile; State Trunk Highway 55, south county line-Kaukauna, concrete surfacing, 1.7 miles.

Shawano county: State Trunk Highway 23, Shawano to Tilleda, concrete surfacing 12.7 miles; State Trunk Highway 29, Thornton overhead, concrete surfacing, 3 miles; same highway, Wittenberg overhead, concrete surfacing, 3 miles; State Trunk Highway 26, Marion to Split Rock, gravel surfacing, 6.5 miles.

Winnebago county: State Trunk Highway 125, city of Neenah, concrete surfacing, 1.2 miles; U. S. Highway 41, Graf bridge and approach, concrete surfacing, .2 mile; County Trunk "T," Omro-Lake Poygan road, concrete surfacing, 5 miles; County Trunk "T," Oshkosh-Winchester road, concrete surfacing, 5 miles.

EXHIBIT APPLETON FURNITURE IN MART IN CHICAGO JAN. 5

Local Firm Sends Shipment—Show to Last 14 Days

Furniture made in Appleton again is on its way to Chicago to compete against the products of more than 250 other cities in 30 states in the national furniture mart in Chicago. A full line of samples made by the Appleton Toy and Furniture company was shipped this week, according to H. M. Kahn, secretary.

The new furniture will be attractively arranged in the local company's space in the American Furniture mart, the largest building in the world devoted to a single industry, where more than 700 leading manufacturers introduce their new models to buyers from retail furniture and department stores in every section of the country.

The Winter mart at Chicago opens Jan. 5, and continues for two weeks. Several executives of the local company will be in attendance.

"We anticipate a satisfactory business at the market," Mr. Kahn said. "The trend all over the country is toward better furniture. The National Furniture Style show, held last September, focused attention on the style of home furnishings."

FURNITURE, TOY BUSINESS BETTER DURING LAST YEAR

Trade Volume and Employment Situations Improved, Manufacturers Say

Business conditions in the toy and furniture industry were better during the past year than in 1929, according to local manufacturers. They also sounded an optimistic note in their forecast for what the new year holds.

The demand for wooden toys, such as children's tables and chairs, was much greater this year than in 1929, but orders for these products came in later and local manufacturers stated.

The tendency of retail merchants last fall seems to have been to keep down their stock and order on demand. Merchants are working to keep as little merchandise as possible on their shelves, and the manufacturer is trying to maintain a smaller inventory, according to Otto Kaufman, secretary of the Toy Corporation of America.

This elimination of force of distressed merchandise will create a tremendous market for goods next year, and business conditions should boom in 1931, it was pointed out.

Merchants and manufacturers will face a cleared market next year, and with merchants buying and manufacturers busy furnishing stock, conditions can't help but be good, Herbert Kahn, secretary of the Appleton Toy and Furniture company, stated.

There was a hoard of small orders during the past fall, he reported. Even the largest retail houses in New York and other big cities bought in small quantities, but they bought often.

As many men were employed during the past season in toy manufacturing as there were in the industry in 1929, it was pointed out. A few more men were given work at the Appleton Toy and Furniture company this fall than last year, according to Mr. Kahn.

This is a period of timidity, and not so much of a depression as most people are inclined to believe, one manufacturer stated. As soon as people realize that business conditions aren't as bad as pointed, there will be more optimism, he added.

SCHOOL BANK AVERAGE DROPS ONE PER CENT

The school banking average dropped one point, from 85 per cent to 84 per cent, during the last Thrift period. A total of $663.30 was deposited by 3,391 pupils, bringing the balance on deposit up to $27,372.54. Forty-four withdrawals amounted to $465.22, and interest credited was $23.85.

Three schools attained 100 per cent averages, Columbus, McKinley and Richmond.

The amounts deposited at the various schools were: Columbus, 233 depositors, $45.46; McKinley, 79, $10.77; Richmond, 51, $4.64; Roosevelt, 420, $116.09; Lincoln, 122, $26.49; First Ward, 320, $91.73; Jefferson, 264, $37.56; Franklin, 256, $31.16; Fourth ward, 158, $32.60; High school, 697, $148.75; Washington, 326, $43.33; Washington, 326, $43.33; Opportunity room, 12, $3.20; Wilson, 212, $29.66; Orthopedic, 11, $1.35.

10 CASES OF TRUANCY DURING LAST MONTH

There was 10 cases of truancy during the month of November according to the monthly report of J. G. Pfeil, trust officer. Of the 46 cases of non-attendance 29 were attributed to parental negligence, 10 to truancy, and 14 to other causes. Of the 46, 14 were girls and 32 were boys.

Five boys and one girl were returned to school, three parents were notified of violation of the law, and three cases were taken into court. There were no cases of truancy discovered. Mr. Pfeil made 113 calls during the month.

EVERY DAY WORTH LIVING

There is no illness so oppressive as an imperfectly functioning stomach — perhaps not serious enough in many cases to be confining, still severe enough to prevent the fullest enjoyment of every day life and the pleasure of performing one's daily duties. To those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble, such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas disturbances, bloating, belching, heartburn, bad breath (halitosis), loss of appetite, we unhesitatingly say "Try Pfeil's Tablets." To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases of stomach trouble, many of which were of a long standing nature. We shall be glad to give further information, and, of course, without obligation, Vol's Drug Store, Exclusive Agent in Appleton and Vicinity.

Rapid Progress Seen On Fox River Valley Federal Buildings

MENASHA MAY GET $100,000 POST OFFICE

Treasury to Advertise for Appleton Post Office in January

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—Rapid progress on federal buildings in the Fox river valley appears to be the program for the next year or two.

The Treasury will probably advertise for bids for the contract to build the post office at Appleton sometime in January, making it possible for work to start about two months later. The limit of cost of this project is $260,000, of which some $65,000 has been spent on acquiring and surveying the site.

Appropriations for the $100,000 Menasha post office and the $70,000 Waupun post office will probably be included in the appropriation bill providing for the federal program to be introduced early in January, the Interdepartmental Public Buildings committee has informed Representative Michael L. Kelly of Fond du Lac.

Kaukauna may also be included in the next list of towns and cities for which public buildings are to be provided. Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton will appear before the committee Tuesday to urge that provisions for Kaukauna be made in the bill to be introduced in January.

Appropriations for Wausau's $270,000 post office will probably be made in this bill. Postage is also listed for consideration, as are New London, Plymouth and Shawano.

SERGEANT MOORE CLAIMS HE HAS 1ST NEW LICENSE

Sergeant James Moore of the Appleton police department this year claims to be the first Appleton car owner to display a 1931 auto license plate. Sergeant Moore received his new license Saturday. The number is 181, the same as the telephone number of the police department. The plates have orange numbers and letters on a purple background.

Many new license plates were being received at the post office Monday morning for delivery to Appleton car owners.

CHARGE MAN DROVE CAR WHILE DRUNK

Hortonville Driver Arrested After Machine Crashes Into Post

Sylvester Stake, Hortonville, is in the county jail awaiting arraignment before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court on charges of drunk driving. Stake was arrested about 4:30 Sunday afternoon on Highway 41 in the village of Little Chute after he lost control of his car, which jumped the curb and crashed into a sign post in front of the City Service Filling station.

Andrew Miller, county motorcycle officer, arrested Stake and brought him to the county jail where he is being held. He probably will be taken into court Monday afternoon. Stake's car was badly damaged and the post it struck was broken off. Stake cut one hand, but otherwise was not injured.

FARMERS TO HEAR ABOUT NEW CO-OP

Two Meetings in Appleton and Town of Center, Will Be Held Wednesday

Two speakers will discuss the Pure Milk Products cooperative at meetings Wednesday in the town hall, town of Center and at the court house in Appleton. The meetings were arranged by Gus Sell, county agent, on demand of a group of farmers who are interested in the new cooperative which has two branches in the county, one at Nichols and the other at New London. The meeting in Center will start at 1:30 and the meeting in Appleton will start at 8 o'clock.

The speakers will be H. W. Witte, a marketing expert, with the state department of markets and agriculture; and R. P. Adams, an official of the new cooperative. They will explain the aims and purposes of the new association, outline the manner in which it works and discuss the benefits.

Farm women have been extended a special invitation to attend the meeting with their husbands. If there is enough sentiment for organizing new branches of the cooperative the preliminary steps will be taken at these meetings.

RANEY TO CONTINUE TALK TO ROTARIANS

A continuation of his speech, Early Appleton History, will be given by Dr. W. F. Raney of Lawrence college at the meeting of Rotary club Tuesday noon at Hotel Northern. Several weeks ago Dr. Raney carried the history of Appleton up to the opening of Lawrence Institute, lack of time prohibiting him from completing the address. His talk was so enthusiastically received that he was asked to continue it at a second meeting.

RESERVE OFFICERS STUDY USE OF TANKS

Appleton reserve army officers who are studying a problem on tanks and tank maneuvers will hold their next meeting Friday evening at the army. Solution to a problem given the officers two weeks ago will be handed in to Capt. A. P. Lagorio, regular army instructor here, who is conducting the class.

DR. DENIL OPENS NEW OFFICES IN APPLETON

Dr. A. A. Denil, Chicago, Ill., has taken over the practice of Dr. Robert E. Larsen here at 123 W. College ave. It was announced Monday, Dr. Larsen has opened a practice in Milwaukee. Dr. Denil is a graduate of the National College of Chiropractic in Chicago.

HEINEMANN TO GIVE TALK AT KAUKAUNA

County Judge Fred V. Heinemann will go to Kaukauna Tuesday afternoon where he will give an address at a meeting of the Kaukauna Women's club. Judge Heinemann will discuss his work with children in juvenile court and he will also outline the system under which the court operates.

YACHT CLUB MEMBERS ENTERTAIN AT PARTY

they stood trial to an army warehouse on the outskirts of the city. With their backs against a wall, both refused hands for their eyes and looked unflinchingly into the rifles of the squads of nine men each.

Captain Galan smoked a cigarette and, waving a priest away, said he had been responsible for the plot and that Garcia had played only a minor part. Just before he died he gave a purse containing 500 pesetas to the non-commissioned officer in charge of the squad to be given to the poor. Captain Garcia spoke with a priest before he fell. In both cases the non-commissioned officers walked to them and delivered the coup de grace with their sidearms.

A government statement set the rebel casualties in the battle Saturday at Ayerbe: 140 dead and 100 wounded. King Alfonso has been the target for assassins no less than eight times since he assumed the crown and during recent years there have been innumerable designs against his life.

Republican sentiment, always apparent below the surface of things in Spain, came solidly into the open in September when 20,000 persons at a mass meeting in Madrid openly demanded that the king abdicate.

The king was reported to have said that it didn't matter much what form of government Spain had, if every Spaniard gave his best for his country. Of recent months he is credited with a "death before surrender" attitude.

The resignation of Primo de Rivera in January of this year followed growing disturbances and disorders throughout Spain. For a time, when it was thought that the country would revert immediately to constitutional government, republican ardor seemed to cool.

Then, with the country's economic condition steadily growing worse and the peseta dropping in value almost daily, there was renewed trouble. Riots broke out early in February and strikes in various centers gave an indication of the country's seething discontent.

In June, 1930, so serious was the situation that the king, taking advantage of a scheduled trip abroad, conferred at length in Paris with the exiled Spanish liberal leader, Santiago Cascajols. The latter refrained from counselling abdication, but urged that the monarchy be reestablished on thoroughly democratic lines and that the government be turned over to liberal statesmen.

Even at the time of the king's interview with Santiago Alba, however, there were rumors that an abdication was imminent and the opinion was freely expressed that Alfonso had left Spain to avoid eventualities. He soon returned, however.

Strikes in various parts of Spain again hinted trouble in July and again demands for an end of the monarchy were heard. Early in August, radical and republican elements were said to be planning revolution. At Burgos police charged crowds that were shouting "death to the king" and "long live the republic."

On August 22 Spanish revolutionary partisans in Paris announced that a revolutionary committee had been set up in Spain itself and that a united front of anti-monarchists, including Catalan autonomist leaders, would await the ripe moment for the proclamation of a republic.

From August on, strikes and disorders became increasingly frequent. The government admitted that they were "republican and revolutionary" in origin and attributed them to the presence of foreign agitators.

Late in September, mass meetings were held and the demand for the king's abdication was voiced openly throughout the country. On Oct. 12, birthday anniversary of Columbus, the government announced that with the arrest of hundreds it had nipped in the bud a workmen's plot for revolt.

CHILTON MAYOR HURT IN CAR COLLISION

Dr. J. N. Higgins, mayor of Chilton, was bruised and his wife fractured two ribs Sunday afternoon when their car collided with a farmer's truck on the Darby road just southeast of Appleton. Their son, also in the car, was uninjured.

Both the truck and the car were coming toward Appleton. The shipper road caused the accident.

AGREE TO SHARE JOBS

Spokane, Wash. (AP)—Railroad trainmen and switchmen representing six lines in Spokane, voted today to share their jobs with the jobless. Trainmen agreed to surrender work up to 1,000 miles a month depending on the length of their runs and switchmen gave four days a month. The trainmen stipulated, however, that they would surrender work only after they had run a minimum of 3,300 or a maximum of 3,600 miles.

Stalin Poses for His Portrait

Tennessee Congressman To Fight For Muscle Shoals

BY JOHN MOUTOUX
Greenville, Tenn.—The new congressman will have a man in the lower house who will lead the fight for government operation of Muscle Shoals and government construction and operation of Cove Creek dam in much the same way that Senator Norris has carried on the fight in the upper house.

C. B. Lovette, Greenville lawyer, was elected to congress on that issue and he doesn't intend to follow the footsteps of B. Carroll Reece, the man he defeated. Reece favored leasing the shoals to a private company.

Lovette was elected as an independent but he has always been a Republican and intends to remain one when organization of the House is undertaken unless the Republican leaders decide to punish him for defeating a man President Hoover wanted re-elected. However, it will be recalled, sent a letter to Reece approving his stand against the Norris bill.

"In general I am against government ownership and operation of anything," the congressman-elect said in an interview. "But water power is different. The streams of the country belong to the people and I am strongly opposed to the power in these streams being turned over to a private monopoly."

Lovette is a former district attorney general and he isn't accustomed to handling people with gloves on. So when Hoover, Speaker Longworth and Congressman Tilson sent letters to Reece endorsing his action on Muscle Shoals, Lovette had his say about them and their action.

"What right have they to say that the streams of Tennessee shall be turned over to the power trust?" Lovette said when he was campaigning in the primary for Sam W. Price.

Lovette and his son, Frank, now a Washington newspaperman, toured Tennessee for Hoover two years ago. He is still for him but he thinks the President over-stepped himself when he took a hand in a Tennessee congressional race.

MADE WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN

Government operation of the Shoals and clean elections were the two outstanding issues of a whirlwind campaign which carried Lovette to victory. The Greenville lawyer entered the race only 10 days before the election, after Price, defeated by Reece in the primary but running as self-styled Republican nominee, withdrew from the contest and sided with Reece. His success was remarkable in view of the fact that Price went over to Reece at the last minute and urged those who supported him to do likewise.

CITY EMPLOYEES ARE KEPT BUSY SANDING STREETS

"On call" like the fire and police departments, members of the street department were kept on the jump over the weekend taking the slip out of the icy streets and walks. Arterial stops were sanded Saturday morning and Saturday evening, five trucks scattering sand and cinders from 6 to 9 o'clock. The trucks were out again Sunday and Monday.

TRUCKS READY FOR FIGHT WITH SNOW

Eight large trucks, equipped with snow plows, were driven to their new winter quarters Monday from the county garage. The trucks, which are to be used in snow removal work this winter, are to be stationed at Kaukauna, Freedom, Seymour, Shiocton, Black Creek, Bear Creek, New London and Dale. Drivers have been appointed for each truck and they will operate under order direct from the county highway office here. Thus, after a heavy snow fall or during a bad storm, the county's snow removal system can start operating simultaneously from nine points instead of one. The balance of the county's removal equipment including five tractors and several more trucks, are stationed at the county garage on Highway 76.

RECORD PERIOD IN TOBACCO INDUSTRY IS SEEN THIS YEAR

1930 Production Will Total Nearly 130,000,000,000 Cigarettes

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Washington—Nearly 130,000,000,000 cigarettes will be produced in the United States before the end of this year, and most of them will be smoked here. This will give the tobacco manufacturing industry the greatest year it has ever known. The establishment of this record was due primarily to remarkably efficient sales promotion and wide spread advertising. But there is no doubt that, just as in war time, the industry and the workers operated to increase tobacco sales. In the period from January to October, inclusive, there were 103,004,924,000 cigarettes made. This compared with 101,745,120,000 for the corresponding period of 1929, which up to that time was the record breaking period. Sales just about equalled production, for it is not customary to pile up big stocks in storage. The leading interest made profits never before approached by the company. This was forecast to some degree about this time last year, when the leading interest made known its intention of increasing its advertising appropriation materially.

Increase Is Domestic

The increase in sales of cigarettes has been a domestic rather than a foreign development. China, which is a splendid market for American cigarettes, has been in the throes of political unrest and has had its buying power terrifically curtailed by the drop in silver quotations. Other foreign countries which provided markets have suffered from depression, but in the United States the tobacco manufacturing industry stands out as one of the bright spots of the business year. The cigar manufacturing industry has done well, and the results of the holiday trade will add to the total reported at the end of October, the latest official figures. But the total number of cigars produced in the period ended Oct. 31 was slightly less than in 1929. The output amounted to 5,846,357 cigars, as shown by the revenue stamps purchased, compared with 5,857,706, 216 in the corresponding months of 1929. The total of cigars produced this year will probably approximate 6,950,000,000. The demand, as in recent years, was mostly for the medium priced machine-made products. On the other hand, the tobacco growers had a bad season. They had a large crop, as the weather was favorable in many growing districts, but there also was a heavy carry-over and prices, according to many growers, were below cost of production.

Offer 10 Prizes For Best Posters Made By Students

Cash prizes totaling $5 are to be awarded to the 10 rural school graduates of the county who design the best posters containing America's ten commandments as designated in the farewell speech of George Washington. The commandments were compiled by Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner, who with A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, planned the contest. The prizes are to be given by Mr. Meating and the graduates may use the money to apply on their commencement trip funds. In Mr. Meating's letter announcing the contest he says: "The thoughts, expressed in the ten commandments more than 150 years ago, are so up to date that they impressed Judge Werner as being suited to young Americans. The policy of Washington has made America a great nation. To keep it a great nation, you must do your part to get the spirit of the Father of our Country. "Study the commandments carefully as part of your literature and civics class work. Then see if you can make an illustrated poster that will set these rules off in artistic form." The posters may be written or printed, with or without a border, illustrated with free hand drawings or tracings with fancy or plain letters, in black and white or in colors. The posters are to be 12 inches wide and 18 inches long. The contest is open to students of the seventh and eighth grades. There will be a first prize of $2; second prize of $1.50; third prize of $1; and seven prizes of 50 cents each. Following are the commandments: "1. Cease, sons of America, lamenting our separation, go on and confirm by your wisdom the fruits of our joint councils, joint efforts and common dangers. "2. Reverence religion. "3. Diffuse knowledge throughout your land. "4. Patronize the arts and sciences. "5. Let liberty and order be inseparable companions. "6. Control party spirit, the bane of free government. "7. Observe good faith to and cultivate peace with all nations. "8. Shut up every avenue of foreign influence. "9. Contract rather than extend national connections; rely on your selves. "10. Be an American in thought and deed."

PLAN COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL SITE

Four City Organizations to Appoint Representatives to Body

Four Appleton organizations, the Trades and Labor council, the chamber of commerce, the American Legion and the Woman's club, will be asked to appoint representatives to make up a committee to select an advisory survey committee to the board of education for the recommendation of a suitable site for a new high school building. Within the next week the secretary of the board of education will send a communication to these organizations, setting forth in detail the wishes of the board, and the purposes of the request. At the board meeting held Friday night the high school basketball team was given permission to practice at the armory instead of at the Lawrence gymnasium. A ventilating fan will be installed in the kitchen of the Opportunity rooms at Lincoln school to keep the odors of cooking food from permeating the whole building. The painting of the basement at First Ward school has been completed. Monthly bills allowed amounted to $4,457.85.

WINE BUT NEVER BEER

Mrs. Mabel Wildebrandt is a crack shot with a monkey wrench because she coolly settles her aim and purpose before she flings. Quitting a position as assistant attorney general of the United States with a reputation as one of the most devout and hard-hitting dries and rather proud of the accusation that the eighteenth amendment was about the only part of the constitution she could see, she has reappeared upon the scene of prohibition controversy as attorney for the California Fruit Industries, Incorporated, which is interested in marketing California grape juice so that it will sell well and profitably, that is in such condition that if you close the cellar door upon it a sour look at the keg will start all the little bubbles of fermentation.

Mrs. Wildebrandt spoke before the National Temperance council but the doors were closed and locked, as they always must be when it is thought unwise to permit the public to learn what is transpiring. Locked doors only make the fever of suspicion run high, but no doors are so thick that some leakage isn't possible. The dry forces are in retreat with divided leadership and confusing counsels, and Mrs. Wildebrandt as paid attorney for the Fruit Industries is willing to plan the backward march, or at least advise upon it, and save as much of the field of battle as possible. She is to be the prohibition Cincinnati.

The dry sentiment in California even is crumbling, and the wet Rolph has been elected governor over the dry Young. Something must be done about it to stem the rout. Why not a little leak in the dyke, just enough to let the grape juice of California through, satisfy the grape raisers and show that prohibition, although it doesn't prohibit them, is fine for the rest of the country and good for their pocketbooks? Thus California, with its large congressional vote, may be saved to the dries.

California is a smart state. Its tillers of the soil are well organized. Through cooperative effort in finding or creating markets it gets the best prices and disposes of the most goods. The grain states aren't very smart, at least not smart enough to pay Mrs. Wildebrandt a retainer. It is unlawful for them to use their produce to manufacture wort, although it doesn't contain over one-half of one per cent of alcohol, merely because it may be easily turned into 4 per cent beer. But it is all right for California to so prepare its fruit juices that they may be as easily turned into Port or Sherry, Bordeaux or Burgundy with an alcoholic content three to ten times as great as beer. In this respect prohibition is running true to form. Even if the people receive strong instead of mild alcoholic drinks the day must be saved.

A DIFFICULT TASK

The courts occasionally lay difficult tasks on the shoulders of citizens; but surely one of the most difficult on record is the one which a New Jersey judge thought up recently for a chap named John Webster, who had a hen house in his back yard and whose roosters, crowing lustily at all hours, disturbed the rest of the neighbors.

This judge issued a restraining order requiring John Webster to keep his roosters from crowing between 10 p. m. and 7:30 a. m.; and what we are wondering—along, probably, with Mr. Webster—is how on earth he is ever going to comply with it.

Domestic fowls are contrary creatures, and this is especially true of the rooster. The rooster tends to crow when the spirit moves him, and the spirit moves him according to some incomprehensible secret known only to Mother Nature. Is a mere man to unravel the puzzle and compel the rooster to crow only at seemly hours? It is our hunch that that would be to attempt the impossible.

THE PRACTICE OF PEGGING PRICES

Among the requests the president made upon congress was to place $150,000,000 more at the immediate disposal of the Farm board "in order that important operations of the board now in prospect may be carried through promptly." While nothing definite is said about the plan or policy of the board it is readable from its history as well as from this request that the $250,000,000 heretofore placed at its disposal has been insufficient for its purposes, that it still plans to stem the falling price of farm products and that the new money will be used for that purpose too.

The cynic will tell you that when the government started stabilizing the price of wheat it was $1.22 a bushel and after a year of governmental interference it is 76 cents; when the government started buying cotton it was 18 cents a pound; now it is 10 cents; such, will he say, is the result of governmental interference. But the fact that without this government aid prices would have fallen much further is quite too clear to question. Yet it is a fair question to ask how far the government may properly go in this direction and with what consequences? If it is right in principle to devote $400,000,000 to this purpose why not $4,000,000,000 or why stop even there? And when the government buys up all the farm produce, gives the farmers all the money, and can't sell the produce for lack of a market and fear it will break the price, the government will have to raise the taxes, farmers' included, in order to get the money back and pay the debts it has created in order to originally give the money to the farmers. The circle is a big one but it is a circle. If it were only smaller people would get dizzy faster and understand it easier. As it is they think they are going in a straight line.

Only once before insofar as we can learn has the government of the United States ever stepped out on a similar course. In 1890 it attempted to stabilize the price of silver by buying and hoarding huge quantities of that article. It was claimed that its conduct at that time helped to bring on one of the worst panics in its history, the panic of 1893, but be that as it may, it then learned a lesson, one that it remembered for about forty years, although with the sting of unfortunate experience over, it starts again on the same path though more cautiously and with the purpose at least of a temporary and not a constant policy.

The millions that this experiment has cost, and will cost, may, however, be turned to a useful purpose if the people will keep in touch with the operations of the Farm board, its reports and, considering world conditions, the futility of its purpose. The lesson thus learned should be worth more even than its cost. It is easier to educate people in this manner and the lesson will make a more profound impression than merely referring them to other similar efforts, whether here or abroad and whether in their day or in the days that were.

THE VALUE OF REFORESTATION

The plain cash value of reforestation work is graphically pointed out in a recent statement from Charles Lathrop Pack, famous president of the American Tree association.

Mr. Pack takes Indiana, in the center of a vast manufacturing area, as a typical example. He points out that Indiana uses each year about six times as many board feet of lumber as the state produces within its borders. Add the freight bill to the cost of the lumber, and it is easy to see how much good a home-grown timber supply would do Indiana.

Pointing out that the timbermen themselves are going in for reforestation to a greater extent each year, Mr. Pack remarks that it is now the average citizen who needs to be educated. Quite rightly, he urges that the general public be brought to realize that reforestation can be made highly profitable and economically successful.

For applying decorative stripes to automobiles, a machine has been invented in which a wheel revolves in a receptacle for paint, the flow of which is controlled by a valve with a thumb.

More than 55 per cent of the population of Canada is of British origin and almost 28 per cent of French, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

IT'S ALL very discouraging to read reports of the Automobile Salon (ritzy display of ritzy cars which precedes the New York Automobile show) . . . the most expensive car displayed—a Rolls-Royce with a Brewster body—cost but $21,750 . . . buy us that momma . . . one of them has a complete liquor cabinet . . . more additions to the drunken driver box on our front page if anyone around here cares to pay umpteen thousands for a Duesenberg with a Judkin body . . . but, as we said, it's all very discouraging . . . we'll get our shoes half-sole and let it go at that . . .

"Sh-h-hush! say the Republican senators to Prexy Hoover whom they think has been bawling out the senate too much of late.

"Oke," replies Herb.

And, upon investigation, it appears that Prexy told them that he'd be cautious in the issuance of future statements, but that he reserved the right to speak his mind about Congress if he feels the occasion warrants it.

Which, when you get right down to analysis, means what?

They found a legislator guilty down in Chicago. What the heck, what the heck. Is the machine going to pieces? Oh, well, the Federal courts had the case.

BATTLE OF VERDUN

On Dec. 15, 1918, the French army, commanded by General Nivelle, achieved one of the most significant victories of the World War when they vanquished the Germans at Verdun after 10 months of heavy fighting.

Verdun was the primary objective of the German campaign of 1916, and the failure to secure it had a far-reaching influence on the course of the World War.

Nivelle had attacked on a front of six miles after a three-day artillery preparation. He succeeded in penetrating the German front for a distance of nearly two miles, and according to a Paris report, captured more than 11,000 prisoners.

The moral effects of the victory on the French troops and nation were great. As a reward for his heroic work at Verdun, Nivelle was made commander-in-chief of all the French armies, succeeding General Joffre.

STEAD-D-DY!

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D. Noted Physician and Author

THE FIREMAN SHOULD STICK TO HIS FIRE.

Speaking of the resuscitation of the newborn, Prof. Wendell Henderson says: "It is really rather ludicrous that all over the country today, a doctor who has on his hands a non-breathing newborn child has no better recourse than to telephone the fire department and to have a rescue crew come clanging up to the door. Is it not time that the hospitals, thru their ambulances, and the health departments, by renting or loaning inhalators to obstetricians and midwives, should take over this service?"

And the distinguished authority on resuscitation hasn't told the half of it. I can testify. There are a lot of doctors in the country today, some of them very important men in their own estimation, who simply do not know how to resuscitate anybody.

Such doctors are the ones who so gladly pass the responsibility in these emergencies to the fire department, the police, or to anybody who is ready to rush into the picture.

A medical man who takes more than the usual small pride in his "experience" naively described how he had tried letting his engine idle while warming up in his small garage one cold morning with the garage closed, and by George he just managed to get to the open air and that was all! As a matter of fact the doctor had not done any such foolish experiment at all—he had been slightly gassed with carbon monoxide, and that narrow escape taught him the danger. Obviously no one who knows the terrible abruptness of that form of death would willingly engage in any such experiment.

The inhalator mentioned by Prof. Henderson is merely an inflatable bag in which air or oxygen and carbon dioxide gas may be mixed in the right proportions for the victim to inhale, while Schaefer's method of artificial respiration is being used. A mixture of 7 or 8 per cent. of carbon dioxide in air or oxygen is a much more powerful stimulant to the victim's breathing than is pure oxygen or air alone. Carbon dioxide in the air we breathe is the natural stimulant of respiration. It is particularly essential in the institution of breathing in the newborn. It is probably the explanation for the beneficial results of mouth to mouth insufflation in establishing respiration in the newborn. The expired air contains 4 to 5 per cent of carbon dioxide.

Such inhalators should be kept available wherever it is likely that there may be victims of drowning, gassing, smoke asphyxiation or poisoning to resuscitate. Some communities still have those antiquated and dangerous lung motors or breathing machines, which in the name of humanity should be junked and replaced by inhalators.

The breathing of an atmosphere of oxygen with 7 per cent carbon dioxide helps the victim of monoxide asphyxiation to blow off or eliminate from the lungs the poison. So it is excellent treatment, even where breathing has not actually ceased.

Anyhow, it is a disgrace to the professional standard of the local medical faculty when these cases are turned over to the well meaning but crude efforts of firemen. A hospital that has to call in firemen to render first aid is a poor excuse.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Cocoa For Breakfast. Is drinking cocoa for breakfast every morning good for one? Does it have any effect on the skin? (G. S.)

Answer.—It is as wholesome and healthful as tea or coffee for persons over 16 years of age; I do not believe children should take any such beverage. Cocoa has no untoward effect on the skin or complexion. Neither has tea nor coffee in moderation.

Not Any. How much truth is there, if any, in the magazine statements that eye glasses are unnecessary if one practices certain eye exercises? (D. K.)

Answer.—Not a trace. That is just one of the many mail-order rackets for the great sucker population of the U. S. A.

Excuse Me Please. Please tell me just how tuberculosis acts on a person from the first start in the lungs. I want to know just how a person feels when he starts to get it. (Mrs. J.)

Answer.—Nearly all patients I have seen just starting to get it declared they were feeling fine, only just a little tired, in need of a tonic, run down from overwork or too much study, anemic, nervous or something. Don't try to grapple with the problem of diagnosis on your own. If any question or suspicion of tuberculosis arises, let your doctor examine you and advise you. I am glad to send to any one who asks for it (but no clippings, please) a monograph containing such information and advice as I think one developing lung tuberculosis or ill of it should have inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address.

Canker Sores Conquered. My mother suffered for many years with constant canker sores in her mouth . . . last summer she happened to begin drinking large quantities of lemonade daily, and suddenly found she had not a canker sore in her mouth. She has kept this up, drinking the lemonade hot in colder weather, and she no longer suffers from canker sores. Incidentally she says she has less "stomach trouble" than for years past. (G. L. E.)

Answer.—Any remedy for the treatment can do no harm. Perhaps some other readers afflicted with the pesky little cankers will test it and report results. My best bet for canker sores is (a) discarding toothbrush and dentifrices; (b) avoiding excessively hot or cold foods or drinks; (c) cleaning up of any septic foci in teeth or tonsils; (d) daily touching of sores with iodine and glycerin, half and half; and (e) boric acid solution mouth wash.

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Ashton Cockayne Shallenberger will be turning his face toward Washington again soon—proving once more that he is a man "who always comes back."

That's the reputation he has in Nebraska. In the words of his friend and colleague, Representative Howard:

"The governor frequently falls outside the breastworks in political battles, but his face is always to the fore."

Well, the "governor" will come to Washington next March 4th to take the oath as representative from the fifth Nebraska district—his fourth trip for such a purpose in the last 30 years.

The first was back in 1901—in the 57th congress. Two years later he fell "outside the breastworks" and went back to Nebraska. But five years later he ran for governor and was successful. Three years in the governor's chair whetted his appetite for the United States senate.

FACE TO FORE

In 1912 he made a bid for a seat in that body, but —"outside the breastworks" he fell for the second time.

But "his face was to the fore." Three more years saw him in Washington as a representative again. This time he was destined to serve in two congresses before fall No. 3 outside the breastworks."

In 1923 he was back again. Three congresses—the 65th, 66th and 67th—passed into history before this battle-scarred veteran fell for the fourth time "outside the breastworks."

At the age of 67 — on March 4, 1929—he took his seat on the floor of the house for the final session of the 70th congress. Within a few minutes he would leave for his home in Nebraska. Ashton Cockayne Shallenberger, private citizen, Fred Johnson was there to take his place as the fifth district's representative.

His friend and colleague, Representative Howard, arose and asked permission of the speaker to say farewell. He was given two and three-quarters minutes in which to do it.

ANOTHER COMEBACK

"That farewell was a gem. Read it for yourself."

"The governor lives out in what we call the short grass country of Nebraska," said Howard, "and I can recall the time before his coming when no democrat was able to raise his head higher than the buffalo grass in Nebraska."

"If you people are acquainted with the buffalo grass, you will know that it grows very close to the ground."

"But the governor has a habit of coming back. And he will come again two years from now if he shall want to come, and he will bring Norton (a Nebraska democrat also defeated) back with him."

"Because all the world seems to feel that two years from now there will be a righteous revolution that will bring back many good men."

Well, the "governor" is back again. And so is Norton.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Santa Claus is back. There is a regiment of Santa Clauses around town every year—tall ones, short ones, lean ones, fat ones, glad ones, and some sad, lackadaisical ones.

Those standing at street corners in the interest of charity, ringing bells over coin-kettles, on the whole are rather unconvincing. It would not take a very bright child to detect the phoney beard.

But the department store variety are more realistic, and the dean of them all is Eugene S. Todd, who has been a Santa Claus four successive Decembers.

Todd, who lives on the lower east side and is 73 years old, wears a bona fide beard the year 'round and leads very little make-up to impersonate the patron saint of givers.

Between seasons he is an artist's model, posing as Michaelangelo, Moses, Theoder Horn or other whiskered notables. He enjoys his Santa Claus make-believe most.

—AND MAYBE NOT

"You would be surprised," a Fifth avenue jeweler said to a friend of ours, "if I told you the names of people who have tried to hock their diamonds this fall."

It seems that wealthy Manhattanites still are feeling the effects of stock marketing. The jeweler said that he got frequent calls from banks, inquiring the value of certain gems that were sold by his house. The owners had taken them to the bank as security for loans.

On the other hand, he said that one day a woman came into his store and bought a $480,000 necklace. The remarkable thing about it was that she was unknown to him. He had never even heard of her name and it is his business to keep well informed of people rich enough to make a large diamond purchase.

Times, he decided, were not so bad.

SENATORS WORK TO REINSTATE 2 BOYS IN ACADEMY

Harmless Little Party Just
Tangled With Discipline, It Seems

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

Washington, D. C.—In these days of tempestuous senate oratory, with its challenge and defense of party loyalties, there is on the boards a minor drama with a suggestion of Hollywood in the plot, a light filler in the senatorial program, yet important enough to engage the attention of several leading senators.

In the midst of defense programs and other weighty matters before the naval affairs committee of the senate appears a bill embodying the hopes of two former midshipmen at Annapolis, two nice girls, their uncles and their cousins and their aunts, admirals and, off-stage, and less directly interested persons who like the conventional happy ending.

Lawrence L. Myatt of Quincy, Mass., and Miller D. Burgin of San Antonio were bounced out of Annapolis last July for taking into the naval academy two girls dressed in midshipmen's blouses. After they were out, it was discovered that about all it amounted to was a harmless party getting tangled up with navy discipline, and now Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Senator Sheppard and Senator Connally are now working to get the boys back in again.

A neat little plot complication comes to light in the discovery that when the boys were caught, they knew that once the daughter of the disciplining officer had been smuggled into the academy under exactly the same circumstances.

NOT FIRST FRANK

The boys knew of other pranks incidents involving visits of girls to the academy, but it just wouldn't be sporting to tell the frowning, gold-braided higher ups about it, so they took their medicine and went their way.

Senator Walsh, busy in the battle over federal relief appropriations, took time out Thursday to tell this correspondent about this bit of human senatorial play.

"To begin with," he said, "these are nice boys, and the young women, Mary Eleanor Hayden and Lorette Taylor, of Washington, are nice girls. There's no mistake about that. One Sunday afternoon the boys had taken the girls out for a drive. It was dinner-time and they were about to separate at the entrance to the big ward room, where the boys were to go to dinner. One of the boys remarked wistfully that he wished he could take the girls in to dinner. One of the girls suggested that it was strategically possible.

"There was a conference and one of the boys dashed away and returned with two midshipmen's blouses.

GOT THROUGH MEAL

"With a thousand or two boys crowding into the room, that portion of the two bobbed haired figures visible above the level of the tables merged nicely in the crowd. When the girls sat down, no one could see that they wore skirts. The happy little comedy went through famously and the quartet had a gorgeous time, but at the exit, when the crowd was thinning, some sharp-eyed observer, official or otherwise, caught sight of the skirts. Several days later the boys were called on the carpet.

"The boys had a fine record and the young women are of similarly good standing, but in spite of all this they were suspended. When I learned the facts in the case, I was convinced that a year's suspension would be ample and I have put in a bill for their re-instatement."

Burgin is a son of the Rev. S. H. C. Burgin, of the Methodist church south, of Jacksonville, Fla., and it is through the efforts of the elder Mr. Burgin that Senator Sheppard has become interested in the case. Young Myatt comes from Quincy, Mass., the home town of Secretary Adams of the navy.

The home towns of the two midshipmen have been considerably worked up over the incident, as was the under-graduate section of the naval academy, petitioning their superiors in behalf of the accused. The affair has caused some comment in Washington on the rigid discipline of civilian navy heads, but it looks as if all would end happily, without recourse to an extra session of congress.

HILLS BROS

COFFEE

No MATTER when or where you buy Hills Bros. Coffee it is as fresh as when it came from the roasters. By the vacuum-packing process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from the can and kept out. No air-tight can will keep coffee fresh. It is easy to open a can of Hills Bros. Coffee with the key.

Controlled Roasting gives Hills Bros. Coffee a flavor no other coffee has.

The Senate's Seven New Members Pose

Buy Stamps Now And Avoid Last Minute Holiday Rush

Appleton citizens are urged by William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster to buy sufficient quantities of stamps now to take care of their Christmas mailings.

Because of the rush a few days before Christmas the postal officials here pointed out that people can avoid inconvenience for themselves and at the same time help expedite the holiday work at the post office.

Persons who are planning to send Christmas cards may purchase stamps at this time, it is pointed out without waiting in line at the stamp window, and it is suggested that this policy be followed.

Space Limited

Because of the limited space in the postoffice lobby, officials also ask that patrons address their cards and parcels at home, and that in addressing local cards they refer to the telephone directory or city directory, to make sure that addresses are correct.

Local cards should be tied in one bundle, and those going to other cities in another, and the two bundles deposited at the postoffice, after the cards have been properly addressed and stamped. This will greatly expedite the handling of mail, without inconveniencing the patron to any extent.

Last year, during the month of January, between three million and four million letters were sent to the "dead letter" office at Washington.

A large proportion of these were Christmas messages, many of them containing money or valuables, that could not be returned because they contained no return address or mark of identification. Addresses on the cards were incorrect or insufficient, and they could not be delivered to the party addressed. To avoid loss of cards, therefore, patrons are urged to exercise particular care in addressing and also to place a return address on the outside of the envelope.

Address on One Side

Christmas parcels should be addressed on one side only, and Red Cross or other Christmas seals should not be placed on the address side of either parcels or envelopes. They may be used on the back of envelopes, or parcels, should never be placed on the address side. Persons mailing parcels should bring the parcels to the postoffice, so that they may be properly rated and the correct amount of stamps placed on them. If this is not done, and the stamps are not sufficient, much delay in the delivery of the parcel will result.

Because of the fact that during the holiday season the increase in the use of the mails makes it necessary to employ inexperienced help, there is always danger of some delay, and persons who wish to insure delivery of packages or messages by Christmas day are urged to mail early, to avoid this delay.

CLOSING OF LAKE NAVIGATION PUTS MANY OUT OF WORK

Thousands of Men and Women Seeking Jobs for Next Five Months

Superior (P)—The thousands of men and women who each spring turn to the Great Lakes for employment are seeking five-month jobs—something to do until the 1931 navigation season opens.

Fear of inclement weather makes navigation on the lakes hazardous, coupled with only moderate demand for commodities from this district brought inter-lake navigation to a close at the end of the 1930 season. The 1930 lake season, insofar as Duluth and Superior were concerned, was one of the shortest seasons in several years. Inter-lake navigation officially opened here last April 29.

Until late next April the thousands of men who are employed in various capacities in the shipping industry will turn to other means of employment, while the hundreds of boats that ply the five Great Lakes will be at dry docks at the numerous port cities.

The closing of inter-lake navigation at Duluth-Superior this year is the earliest since 1919 when the last boat from lower lake ports arrived December 7, while since 1894 inter-lake navigation closed earlier than that.

December 9 four years. In 1910 and 1911 the inter-lake operations halted December 12. The latest date for inter-lake navigation at the port of harbor in recent years was December 22 in 1909.

Visits to the numerous lighthouses stations on Lake Superior are to be made within a short time and men, stationed at their posts for nearly eight months will be relieved of their vigil. The lighthouse guards in the Lake Superior district are at Granite Island, Huron Island, Manitou Island, Stannard Rock, Raspberry Island, Michigan Island, LaPointe Island, Outer Island, Devils Island, Chequamegon Point and Rock of Ages.

A feature of the closing days of the inter-lake season at the Head of the Lakes was the large volume of grain shipped to eastern markets. The heavy shipment of the past few weeks, it is expected, will be in the neighborhood of 100,000 bushels. Grain during the year was not shipped at anywhere near the normal movement, there being no export demand. Elevators at the Twin Ports, which this year have a larger storage capacity than in previous years, will be stocked with about 300,000 bushels of grain, with grain men hoping to have it shipped to eastern markets at the opening of the 1931 navigation season.

After 22 years of preparation the national dictionary of Scotland is to appear in installments. When completed it will consist of 10 volumes, each of about 200 pages. Editions are being made to publish a part of Volume I, with an introduction dealing with the Lowland language of Scotland and its dialects, illustrated by two dialect maps. Volume II will contain an introduction upon the origin of the Scottish language, and Volume III, one upon the history of Scottish dictionary making.

NOW CHARGE CASH

JUST LIKE CHARGING MERCHANDISE

You can get a loan of $100 to $300* from Household and charge it exactly as you would furniture, clothing or other things you buy

A charge account for money! Sounds strange, doesn't it? Yet, borrowing $100 to $300 under the Household Loan Plan practically amounts to that. You simply ask us for the money you need. We open an account in your name for the amount you borrow. Then we give you the cash. You repay your loan by the month exactly as you would a bill of furniture or other merchandise. And we charge you only for the actual number of days you keep the money. The cost of borrowing under this Plan is nearly one-third less than the maximum lawful rate.

We require no outside signers or endorsers. Neither are inquiries made about you through your friends, relatives or employer. Loans are made to husbands and wives for any domestic purpose.

To open an account for cash, visit, write, or phone your nearby Household office. If more convenient, we will have a representative call at your home.

*As a special service, Household makes loans of $50 to $100 at a rate slightly higher than the rate on loans of $100 to $300.

Officers Of Holy Name Are Elected

NEW officers of the Holy Name society of St. Joseph church were elected at the meeting Sunday morning at the parish hall, which was attended by about 350 members. They are: Gust Keller, Sr., president; John Bergman, vice president; Henry Roemer, treasurer; Oscar Dorn, financial secretary; Alex Hipp, recording secretary; Charles Feuststein, marshal; Henry Becker, banner carrier; and George Theiss, song director.

Installation of officers will take place the third Sunday in January at which time the sixth annual banquet of the society will take place. The Rev. Camillus Becker, Milwaukee, will be the installing officer. The society will approach Communion on the second Sunday as usual.

There will be a special meeting of officers Friday night at the home of Ray Dohr, 617 S. State-st.

The Brotherhood of First English Lutheran church will hold election of officers at the meetings at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the church. Plans for the coming year will be made.

The monthly educational meeting of the Junior Young People's society of St. Paul Lutheran church will be held at 7:30 Tuesday evening in the parish school auditorium. A social hour will follow the educational meeting. The junior board also will hold a short business meeting.

Forty Methodist college students, members of the Frieside Fellowship group, enjoyed a Christmas party at the church Sunday evening. Mrs. John Engel Jr. read Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man," and W. E. Smith talked on "The Real Spirit of Christmas." A trio, Miss Phoebe Nichols, cello, Jack Sampson, violin, and Miss Kathryn Uglow, piano, played Christmas carols, and a quartet sang several Yuletide selections. Both groups were in medieval costume.

The high school group will hold its Christmas party next Sunday.

A Changed World was the topic for discussion at the joint meeting of Christian Endeavor societies of First Reformed and Memorial Presbyterian churches Sunday evening at the former church. Miss Mary Schenck was the leader. Miss Elsie Schenck presented a violin solo, and Miss Annette Post gave a vocal selection. Miss Annette Heller was accompanist for both numbers. Thirty members were present.

A meeting of the Young Ladies' sodality of St. Theresa church will be held at 7:30 Thursday night at the parish hall. Regular business will be transacted.

Mrs. R. E. Burmeister was elected president of the newly organized Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church at a meeting Friday night at the church. The society was organized through the merging of Trinity Guild and the Young Women's Missionary society. Other officers are: Mrs. R. Breitung, vice president; Mrs. J. Homblette, recording secretary; Mrs. Albert Roehl, statistical secretary; Mrs. Gust Tersch, treasurer; and Miss Marie Luebbe, assistant treasurer. New officers will be installed at the January meeting.

Meetings will be held the first Thursday of each month, but the next meeting will be the second Thursday in January because of New Year's Day. The Evening Circle will meet the third Tuesday of the month.

Mrs. T. R. Hayton will lead the devotional at the meeting of the Women's Union of First Baptist church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the church. Mrs. L. Powers will read a business session will be followed by a Christmas missionary story, and the Christmas story. The committee in charge includes: Mrs. Glen Medlam, Mrs. Harold Babb, and Mrs. Cornelius Riegles.

Election of officers will be the principal business at the meeting of Zion Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion Lutheran church at 7:45 Tuesday night at the school hall. Present officers are: Arthur Becker, president; Otto Rank, vice president; Victor Verwer, secretary; and Alfred Kolberg, treasurer.

Mission Work in India was the topic for discussion at the devotional service Sunday night at First English Lutheran church. Miss Mildred Albrecht spoke on the History of Mission Work in India, and Miss Isabelle Krull discussed the Work of Our Synod in India. Seventeen young people were present. The next meeting will be Dec. 23 when junior members will be in charge.

The program at the meeting of Baptist Young People's Union Sunday night at the Baptist church was in the form of a Christmas party. Instructions for the meeting having been attached to candles on a Christmas tree. Miss Lucrèce Zimmerman was leader. The topic was How to Make Others Happy. The following sub-topics were given: Sweetness, Muriel Smolk; Kind Words, Elva Bostrom; The Bible, Harold Eads; Altruism, John Spence. Katherine Arnold read a story taken from Irving Bacheller's "Eben Holden."

Miss Zimmerman challenged the young people to pledge themselves to make others happy especially during the holiday season, and as she concluded each member came forward and lit a candle as a symbol of his pledge. Twenty-five members were present.

LODGE NEWS

A change in by-laws will be voted on at the meeting of Charles O. Baer camp, Spangish War Veterans, at the meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the armory. A lunch will be served after the meeting.

CHURCH CHOIR SINGS CANTATA

The Christmas cantata, "When the Christ Child Came," augmented by some of the famous choruses from older oratorios, formed the Christmas musical program presented by the choir and soloists at the Congregational church Sunday morning. Soloists were Helen Mueller, contralto, and Marian Waterman and Arleen Luecker, sopranos. LeVahn Maesch presided at the organ, and Dean Carl J. Waterman directed the choir.

In addition to the cantata, which abounded in striking choral numbers and effective solos, the choir sang a choral from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio," "The Shepherd's Christmas Song" by Reimann-Dickinson, and the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Mr. Maesch played the "March of the Magi" by Dubois, and a Christmas selection by Burdett-Burdett.

Urge Use Of Right Word To Children

Nothing is so important to children as the right word. Parents often fail to utter it, teachers often forget to speak it. The lift the child needed was not given him at the right moment and he floundered helplessly because it was not forthcoming.

None of us is so wise that the right word comes at time without hesitation or doubt. If we know what it was we would speak it. But we can study a little and find it often.

When you see a child struggling against the domination of another, fighting against jealousy and grudging, help him. Tell him cheerfully how well he does. Tell him that you feel proud of him. Tell him that as long as he lives he will meet evil but that good is never failing. If he will just keep right on doing his work, doing his best to help wherever possible, whoever possible, without pride and without self seeking, he will come out all right.

Teach children to be friendly. Teach them that grudging, paying back, belittling another's success, is poor sportsmanship. To win is fine but the manner of winning must be finer if the victory is to stand. No victory helps one's cause unless it is endorsed by the opinion of the group, which is larger than one might suppose.

Friendliness that extends to all who come within its radius is a security for happiness. It is well worth having upon a fair price and boys and girls are usually very fair about it. They sense a just and kindly spirit instantly and rally to it.

Children have their own troubles. They suffer as keenly under their burdens as grown people do under theirs. When they look downhearted say the right word of comfort for them. Promise them that there is in such a way as to lead them to find a rift in their overcast sky.

Never emphasize their misfortune. No good comes of telling and retelling a tale of woe. The best way to kill a grievance is to write it out talk it out, to some friend, and then forget it. Once the child has unburdened himself try to ease his mind without telling him he is previously starting and to be proud. Show him the way out if you can. Search back in your childhood for an occasion like this and tell the child the story so that he may know himself a part of the great scheme in which none escapes his burden, and none is wholly without joy.

Try to find a story of your own that will make him laugh. Tell him the truth about your own struggles. Some parents and teachers try to make the children believe that they never had a childhood, never loved to run free, to laugh, to shout, to idle and dream. They hide their childhood experience instead of calling on them for the right word in time of need.

The right word is always tinged with tolerance, kindness, understanding and truth. There are times when it is hard enough to find but we might find it often, if we tried harder.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write them in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

STUDENTS FETED AT CHURCH PARTY

The Lawrence Lutheran Students' club was entertained in Mount Olive Lutheran church parlors Sunday afternoon. Approximately 40 members were present. Marries Today

Miss Irene Finnegan, Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of Appleton, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Finnegan, of the Astor apartments, Hammond, Ind., whose marriage to Hartwell Bradford, Los Angeles, is scheduled to take place today, is shown above. She made her home in Hammond for several years. She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and later received her master's degree from the University of Chicago. After going to the west coast Miss Finnegan took work at the University of Southern California. For the past few years she has been doing hostess work in some of the larger hotels in California, having recently been with the Arcady hotel in Los Angeles in the capacity of social hostess.

Mr. Bradford is a prominent Californian. He is connected with oil companies in California.

HOLD FORUM AT CHURCH ON WORSHIP

Addresses were delivered by Lacey Horton, superintendent of the junior department of the Congregational Church School, and Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of the Methodist church, at a forum on Church School Worship held at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon. Mr. Horton talked on Church School Worship Programs, and Dr. Holmes read a paper on Church School Music.

COLLEGE FORUM GROUP HEARS TALK BY SLOAN

The Rev. W. W. Sloan, director of religious education at the Congregational church, talked on The Land Where Christmas Began at the college forum meeting at the church Sunday evening. Mr. Sloan told some of his experiences while traveling through the Holy Land in 1928. Christmas carols were sung by the students.

The next meeting of the forum will be Jan. 11, after the college students have returned from their Christmas vacation.

Campus Club Entertains For Faculty

SIXTY-FIVE members of the Lawrence college faculty and their wives were entertained at a Christmas party given by the Campus club at Russell Sage women's dormitory, Saturday evening. Christmas decorations and a little brownie who distributed toys to each guest created an appropriate holiday spirit.

The Conservatory quartet, composed of Carl J. Waltherman, Miss Miller, Miss Farrell, and Marshall Hubert sang a group of songs and Mrs. F. T. Cloak entertained the guests for thirty minutes with a series of clever readings. Afterwards the group gathered around the piano and sang Christmas carols.

Appleton Business and Professional Women's club will be entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday night at the Woman's club. There will be a short business meeting followed by a Christmas party. Carols will be sung and a Christmas tree will lead a Yuletide air to the event.

Mrs. O. R. Busch will have charge of the entertainment for the Christmas party of the General Review club which will be in the form of a 6:30 dinner Tuesday night at Conway Hotel. Tables will be decorated in Christmas colors and gifts will be exchanged. Bridge will be played after the dinner.

BALLARD AGAIN IS LEADER OF FIRST CHURCH

H. P. Ballard was re-elected president of the First English Lutheran congregation for the seventh term at a meeting held Sunday afternoon.

Other officers elected for one year were: Albert Roehm, vice president; Harry Junge, recording secretary; Gust Lemke, financial secretary; Alfred Gauerke, August Lautenschlaeger and Henry Kranzsch, assistants to the financial secretary; John Bert Baehler, treasurer; John Schmidt was named elder for two years, Clarence Richter, deacon for two years, and William Maves, trustee for three years. Ushers appointed by the president are: Albert Roehm, chairman; Fred Rasmussen, Gilbert Beglinger, Frank Koch, Alvin Krabbe, Harold Ferron, Howard Melzer and Luther Elertiz. The audit committee is made up of Clarence Richter, Herman Heinz and Jerry Rasmussen.

Officers will be installed the first Sunday in January, Jan. 4, and the annual business meeting of the congregation will be held on Jan. 11.

CHOIR REHEARSAL

A special rehearsal will be conducted for Mount Olive Lutheran church choir at 7:30 Monday evening, according to A. O. Benz, director. The organization will rehearse for the sacred cantata, "Infant" to be given at 8 o'clock next Sunday evening in the church. The choir also held rehearsal, Sunday afternoon.

ONE STUDENT IS INITIATED BY DELTA OMICRON

Delta Omicron, national professional musical sorority, has announced the initiation of Henrietta Faust, Oshkosh, a junior, which took place Saturday in Dean Carl J. Waterman's studio at Lawrence Conservatory of Music. The initiation was followed by a short pledging at which Miss Carrie Morgan, Mrs. George Schmid, Mrs. Horace Davis, and Mrs. H. V. Humphrey, patronesses, received charms.

A formal banquet was held at Conway hotel in honor of Founders' Day after the ceremonies. The following program was given: Solo by Fessard and Melodie by Tournoux, flute solos by E. C. Moore; address by Miss Carrie Morgan; Polonaise by Mo Dorell, At the Holy Mount by Dvorak, and Erklung by Schubert-Liszt, piano solos by Prof. John Ross Frampton. Sorority songs were sung. Professor Frampton and C. Seeger, patrons, were presented with charms.

PARTIES

Mrs. M. G. Clark, 1617 N. Durkeest, will be hostess to St. Martha Guild of All Saints Episcopal church at a Christmas party at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at her home. Mrs. George Dear will be assistant hostess. A Christmas tree will be a feature and gifts will be exchanged.

Delta Omicron sorority was entertained Sunday night by Mrs. Leslie Pease, sorority mother, at her home on Lawrence-st. A buffet supper was served after which Christmas gifts were distributed among the girls and Christmas carols were sung.

Alfred Luecke, Freedom, was surprised by a number of friends Sunday at his home in honor of his sixty-second birthday anniversary. About 100 guests were present. Cards were played, prizes being awarded to Mrs. Elsie Jansen, Little Chute; Mrs. Herman Kositzke, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Luecke, Elmer Gosse, Appleton; Mrs. George Luecke, Kaukauna; Gordon Remter, and Ernest Harp, Freedom. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fredericks and daughter, Ruth, Mrs. Sophia Zentner, Oshkosh; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gosse and family, Seyers; Mr. and Mrs. George Luecke and family, Kaukauna; Mrs. Alfred Jansen, Little Chute; Mrs. Anna Schimmelpfennig and family, Black Creek.

Mrs. Lester R. Slatery, 507 E. Pacific-st., entertained at a surprise party in honor of her sister, Miss Katherine Mack, Sunday evening at her home. Dice was played at two tables, prizes being won by Mrs. Lambert Schommer, Little Chute, and Miss Helen Hemmy, New London. Other out of town guests were Miss Esther Darnieder, Fond du Lac, and Miss Dorothy Viel, New London.

COMMITTEE TO MEET

The fire and water committee will meet at 7 o'clock Monday evening at city hall. The purchase of some fire hose will be recommended, and a request for water will be considered.

CANTATA IS PRESENTED AT CHURCH VESPER

The sacred cantata, "Bethlehem," were presented at the twilight vesper service at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. The choir directed by Prof. Percy Fullinwider, the quartet, and four soloists, Miss Gertrude Farrell, soprano, George Nixon, tenor, Marshall Hubert, baritone, and Le Baron Austin, Green Bay, took part. Cyrus Daniel presided at the organ.

The cantata, in three parts, represented The Shepherd's Gifts, The King's Gifts, and Our Gifts.

PRODUCTION, NOT SALARIES, CUT BY MANY BIG PLANTS

Conclusion Follows Government Survey of 14,000 Companies

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Although no general survey is possible, there is some data available on the tendency toward wage reductions in the past year. It seems fairly obvious from this that the wage cut movement has been nowhere near as general as the practice of curtailing production and laying off wage earners. Thus far the theory that reduction of purchasing power by reduction of wages would only make conditions worse appears to be held by the large majority of employers.

The government has incomplete but definite figures showing that:

In 10 months ending in October, 724 manufacturing establishments cut the wages of 102,371 employees. The average of these reductions was 9.26 per cent and the average percentage of employees affected in those plants was about 70 per cent.

In the same 10 months, 118 establishments increased wages an average of 6.5 per cent for 32,355 workers—averaging 27 per cent of their working forces. But more than 21,000 of the workers thus benefited were granted the increases prior to January.

These figures are gathered by the Bureau of Labor Statistics through monthly questionnaires to nearly 14,000 manufacturing plants, employing about 3,000,000 persons. They only indicate the percentage of survey covers about 30 per cent of manufacturing workers and because that group represents less than 25 per cent of gainfully employed persons.

FIRE MEN HIRE WOMEN

There have been wage and salary cuts in many other fields. Research experts here also point out that there are forms of wage cuts not definitely admitted to be such. Men are sometimes fired and hired at lower rates. Or concerns close up awhile and then reopen with lower scales. Bonuses paid in addition to basic wage rates have been lopped off. Women are sometimes substituted for men workers at less pay. Union men are found willing to work for less than union scales rather than starve.

Although the lumber, textile, brick, hosiery and knit goods industries seem to have made the most reductions among those reported to the bureau, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor recently attacked employers in the boot and shoe and bituminous coal industries, along with textile mills, as particularly noticeable in that respect.

Union wage scales are usually fixed a year in advance and strong unions have generally been able to maintain their rates. Union wage rates for the first part of 1930 compiled in 67 important industrial cities, were slightly higher than ever before, but most of them were fixed by agreement in 1929 when business was good.

FARM WAGES DOWN

Figures from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics show that farm wages were 13 per cent lower in October than a year ago. They decreased during the summer, as the figure was only 13 per cent in July.

Some idea of the difference in income for those workers still on the job caused by curtailed working hours or wage decreases or both, may be derived from the Labor Statistics bureau's first compilation of per capita earnings of nearly 5,000,000 employees covered in its major monthly survey of employment and payrolls in various industries. This October, 1929, and the comparison was made by dividing the total number of employees reported into the total amount of payroll in the week reported.

It showed increases of 3.6 per cent and 0.5 per cent respectively for public utilities employees in telephone and telegraph and employees in power, light and water enterprises. Decreases in per capita earnings were approximately, 11 per cent in manufacturing, 20 per cent in bituminous mining, 6 per cent in anthracite mining, 12 per cent in metal mining, 8 per cent in quarrying and non-metallic mining, 9.5 per cent in canning and preserving and from 1 to 2 per cent in wholesale trade, retail trade and hotels.

Despite such evidence as is presented in these various figures, all observers have noticed a general reluctance to decrease wages as compared with the spirit exhibited during the last major depression of 1921. Leaders of industry, finance and labor joined with President Hoover a year ago in a call for maintenance of purchasing power through maintenance of existing wage scales. Thus far they have been able to prevent a general movement back to the old-fashioned theory which made labor the goat.

2,000 BEAUTY PARLORS LICENSED IN STATE

MADISON—(AP)—Two thousand persons are engaged in beautifying the faces of Wisconsin women, according to the state board of health.

Two thousand beauty parlor operators are licensed by the board. There are 1100 beauty parlor managers in Wisconsin. Of the operators, only 15 per cent have applied for new licenses. Only 30 per cent of the managers have applied.

Failure to renew a license before Dec. 20 will cost the managers and operators the right to conduct their business, the board said.

PEDICURE IS IMPORTANT IN CARE OF FEET

BY ALICIA HART

A barefoot dancer recently startled her audience by having her toenails enameled in gleaming black.

There is a vogue for well-turned-out toenails. Few women will like to have theirs black, but the well-kept toenail is no longer considered an affectation.

With sandals so popular for house wear, and beach wear, the appearance of feet has an aesthetic value. And they should receive the same daily care that hands do, although a weekly manicure will suffice.

For a manicure, you need practically the same equipment that you do for a manicure, with a pair of fine steel scissors especially designed for the toenails. They are heavier and sturdier than manicure scissors, though they have the same rounded ends. It is a mistake to use your manicure scissors for your toenails.

SAME AS MANICURE

Before beginning a manicure, you should soak your feet in warm water, using a good foot soap. Then use a little nail brush and thoroughly cleanse each nail separately. Let the foot soak while you dry the other on a soft bath towel and begin to push back the cuticle around the nail with an orange stick. Tipped in cotton and dipped in a good cuticle remover.

If you have a tendency to ingrown toenails, never cut them round, but straight across. Then keep the nails filed on the outside because this will make them thinner and give them a tendency to curl outward instead of inward.

Even if your nails are even and lovely, keep them fairly short or you will have stocking trouble, caused by the nails starting runs.

When you have finished filing the nails, and have cleaned out all the skin around them and pushed back the skin at the bottom of each nail, then you can polish them with nail polish and a buffer. Or you may enamel them.

BARE FEET ARE HEALTHY

If you treat yourself to a Chinese manicure, you will come away with gleaming red nails. These are tricky for beach wear, if you are inclined to pajama sandals. Or, the chances are, you will be more inclined to keep your feet bare. Just out of bride. And this would be an excellent thing for your feet. Despite the fact that they may get dirty walking around barefooted, there is nothing healthier for them than to be exposed.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"MARRIED right away?" Sue drew away from Jack to search his face. His eyes were steady and calm and his face was serious. "Why?"

"Because there isn't any reason why we shouldn't be," he insisted. "Tomorrow."

"But I don't understand. I have to get ready. And where would we live? Not that I care about that. Any place is all right. Tomorrow is all right, too. Only... what made you ask me now? Is it... just that you think something... unpleasant is coming... and you want me to be there to help?"

"Listen, young lady, didn't you promise that you would love and honor me and cook my breakfast tomorrow for the next 50 years or so some day?" Now his voice was lighter, a little whimsical, very tender. "And if I want you to start on your new duties right away, why can't you?"

"You're trying to throw me off the track," Sue answered. She wanted to repeat that tomorrow again and let the future take care of itself. But she had been sensible for too long. She couldn't break with the past. And she couldn't go to Jack with this burden beating down the joy in her heart. "You know that this trouble of father's is pretty bad... and you're being chivalrous. I love you for it, Jack, but don't you see I can't till it's straightened out? I have to wait. And I won't get hysterical any more. Honestly I won't!"

"I know you won't." There was sincerity in his tone. "But I'd like to have a better chance to fight it out for you if you'd marry me now, Sue."

"Then there is a... fight?"

"I didn't mean it that way. I meant I'd feel better if you were married to me. Sue, will you promise to take the all-important step the minute this mess blows over?"

"I promise," Sue answered, a little of the old magic dancing back into her eyes. "And I hope it won't be long."

But she was worried about it when she confided in Corrinne. She had gone to dinner at the home of the younger Beckers and found Nancy there, too. After a while she and Corrinne had wandered away, leaving Harry sitting by the fire, half asleep, and Nancy running through half-remembered melodies on the piano in the sun room.

"When will we know if it's all right? When will they catch the thieves?" Corrinne asked. "That jungle cat of a Sybil Lester has had her hand in this pie, I bet. And she's going to get it burned."

"Stealing money is a penitentiary offense," Sue interrupted. "Sybil couldn't do that."

"Of course not. But she's doing her best to make it appear that Dad ran off with it... carries it around in his pocketbook. I suppose she hopes no one will investigate, but that they will just fire him."

"They're investigating already. The money is gone."

"Gone?" Corrinne looked like a baffled child as she repeated the word. "Then she knows something about it."

"I don't think so," Sue answered. "It wouldn't do her any good to lie, for she'll get caught anyway. But she's blaming our father for something someone else did. Oh, life's so hard to understand that I'm tired of trying to."

"I found that out long ago," Nancy's voice spoke from the doorway.

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

"AN UNIDENTIFIED WOMAN"

I see by the papers that another woman has been killed by an automobile near a railroad station in a big city.

It happens in almost every city now and then. Regularly stories of this kind appear in the papers.

Invariably a search is made of the dead woman's clothing for evidence of her identity. Almost invariably there is none. Almost invariably she is young and attractive.

The police investigate the circumstances surrounding her death. The newspapers assist. But after a few days the "case" loses all news value and is abandoned as a source of interest.

Finally she is buried—"An Unidentified Woman."

Who was she?

Whence did she come?

Somewhere there must be some one who once played a part in the tragic life of the young woman. Somewhere there is a brother, a sister, a sweetheart.

What is the significance of "The Unidentified Woman?"

She is not an isolated unfortunate. Her name is legion. She lives everywhere. The papers tell of her death everywhere. She is a character in the drama of life.

Regularly she makes her appearance on the stage that we call the earth—and regularly is killed.

In the cast of characters—in the newspapers—she is listed as "An Unidentified Woman."

At the burial ground near Washington for our heroic dead there lies the Unknown Soldier—the greatest lesson we have on the evils of religious intolerance and prejudice.

That soldier may be Jew, Gentile, Negro, even a heretic—America honors and reveres him.

How shall we judge "The Unidentified Woman?"

It seems to me that in life "The Unidentified Woman" serves a purpose. And in death does, or should, leave the imprint of a "Danger sign, so that others may not die 'Unidentified Woman.'"

Is this her service?

Is not "The Unidentified Woman," in a certain sense, a public benefactor—a visible, living warning—that others like her may see and take heed?

Four minutes boils an egg thoroughly if you like the white set and yolk heated in the center; five minutes makes the white firm and sets the yolk. Ten minutes boils eggs hard.

When serving food from dishes be careful to see that the rims of dishes are perfectly clean. Foods left on rims or edges detract much from making food look appetizing.

In making coffee if you wish to have it strong allow a cup of freshly ground coffee to a quart of boiling water.

To remove blanc mange from a mold dip a cloth in hot water wrung until it will not drip, wrap around mold, turn bottom of mold upward on a flat dish and shake gently to dislodge contents.

Butter to be used in cakes should be wrung in a clean cheese cloth to take out water. Watery butter makes cakes that are heavy and biscuits that are tough.

RENEW EFFORTS TO AID CONSTRUCTION IN UNITED STATES

Heightened Pressure Expected to Show Results Early Next Year

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930 By Cons. Press

Washington — (CPA)—Double efforts must be exerted to stimulate construction work now as compared with last spring, according to real estate men and contractors. This, of course, does not apply to public works, which can be ordered under proper authority by municipal, state and federal officials.

This heightened pressure is now being brought to bear and it is certain its effects will be felt in increased activity in the early months of 1931. The necessity for this added effort is shown by the fact that the impetus given to building by individual firms and corporations has lost its force since mid-year. This is natural to some extent, as building always is more active in the spring and summer than in the winter.

Building contracts awarded in the first 11 months of 1930 fell off 20 per cent or more as compared with the first 11 months of 1929. The decline for the first six months, however, according to the official organ of the Associated General Contractors of America, was only 12 1/2 per cent.

LOWEST POINT SINCE MAY

The contractors are doing everything possible to spur construction, for they fear the decline for the whole year will be almost twice what it was for the first half year. Building is now at the lowest point since last May.

RELIEF FUND NOT FOR BACK DEBTS, COMMITTEE RULES

Rent and Insurance Payments Will Not Be Made for Poor Residents

New London—Meeting to discuss the long list of applications for aid, the executive board of the Community Chest fund has issued the edict that the fund was not created to pay back debts of applicants. This decision came in answer to requests of persons owing rent. It also was decided that no insurance payments could be made from the fund. But rent will not be included in the grocery orders of persons asking aid, but but substitutes will be provided. Only bills for clothing, food and shelter will be recognized by the committee. A meeting will be held on Dec. 26 at the city hall.

In anticipation of the coming holidays, Mrs. R. J. Small, in charge of the clothing department, asks that all applications for clothes be filed at the city hall sewing room as soon as possible. Children needing clothes for school and church programs will want them this week, as the rooms will be closed during Christmas week.

Much valuable work of fitting, cutting and sewing has been accomplished by the corps of women who day after day have given their time and services. Clothing will continue to be accepted and those having articles may call the work room at the city hall.

DEBATING TEAMS TO MEET ALGOMA

Affirmative Debaters in Action Tuesday Night at School

New London—A dual debate between this school and Algoma high school will take place this week. The affirmative team will meet the Algoma group here at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the high school. On Wednesday evening the negative team will debate at Algoma with the affirmative team of that school.

The question for this year is on chain store system. The negative team comprises Alice Naparalla, Alice Palmer and Westley Calf. Members of the affirmative team are William Schroeide, George Cooney, and Ardell Roeske. The affirmative team has won one three to nothing decision, while the negative team has lost one two to one decision in debates with Neenah high school teams.

MASONS ENTERTAIN AT PARTY AT SEYMOUR

Seymour—The Masonic lodge entertained the wives of the members at a party Monday evening. Betty Rosebaum, Delores Telson, Gene Humphrey, Beatrice Bosson and Dona Herman of Appleton entertained with fancy and novelty dances. Miss Eileen Hansen sang several songs; Jean Riehl also entertained by singing.

The Home Economics club met at the home of Mrs. James Sherman on Dec. 10.

William Mills who is in the Navy, is visiting his parents.

Martin Bauman is in a hospital at Portage recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Anton Vandenbeuvel attended the Cheese Makers convention at Milwaukee this week.

John Delger and Joseph Reed are visiting relatives at Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Mrs. Clara Worsch is at Menominee Mich., visiting her sister who is well.

The last number of the lecture course was held at the auditorium on Friday, Dec. 12. Margaret Hayes, Nationally known soprano, is the leader of this lecture number.

Word has been received here of the birth of a son to the Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Melcher at New Bremen, Ohio.

The Parent Teacher Association of the Blue Star school met at the Ernest Miller home on Thursday evening. After a business meeting a program was given by the school children, Robert Hein and daughters rendered several vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. Hein at the piano.

GIRL SCOUTS TO HOLD CAKE SALE THIS WEEK

New London—The Girl Scout band will sponsor a coffee cake sale next Saturday. The sale will be held at the North Side Krause market. The girls will enjoy a taffy pull on Monday, Dec. 22, at the home of Miss Louise Demming. This will be their Christmas entertainment as scout members. They also will exchange inexpensive gifts.

Joseph Hickey, former theatrical man, who has been engaged to aid in coaching a play to be sponsored by the girl scouts, will arrive in the city from Milwaukee on Wednesday. At that time he will formulate plans for beginning work on a home talent play which probably will be given early in January.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A bridge luncheon was given Saturday by Mrs. A. L. Severance and Mrs. G. A. Vandree. Mrs. A. M. Hutchinson, Mrs. Grover Falk, and Mrs. L. M. Wright won the prizes. The party was given at Elwood hotel.

An informal evening of cards and supper is planned for the Shiocton Masonic degree team at the Masonic temple Thursday evening. On Dec. 29 the formal installation of officers of the Eastern Star and Blue lodges will be held.

GUILD PRESENTS ALTAR PRAYER BOOK TO CHURCH

New London—The women's guild of the Episcopal church has given the church a leather covered altar prayer book which is to be formally dedicated to the memory of Mrs. George Werner, whose death occurred several months ago. The ceremony will be included in the midnight services at the church on Christmas eve. Mrs. Werner was a member of the church and had devoted years of service to work in the guild.

LOWER RATES FOR PAPERBOARD SENT TO BADGER CITIES

Ruling from Commission Will Be Advantageous to Wisconsin Points

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Lower rates on paperboard shipped from Wash. Ind., and Urbana, Ohio, to points in Wisconsin will be established under a decision just handed down by the Interstate Commerce commission.

The United Paperboard Co. filed a complaint with the I. C. C. against rates on paperboards shipped to Appleton, Menasha, Madison, Eau Claire and Milwaukee, Wis., Chicago, Ill., and St. Paul, Minn., as unjust and unreasonable. The rate to Appleton from Wash. was 29.5 cents per 100 pounds, while the complaining company sought a rate of 20.5 cents; and to Appleton from Urbana the rate was 31.5 cents, while 23.5 cents was asked. To Madison, the rates from Wash. and Urbana were 31 cents and 31.5 cents, respectively; while those sought were 17.5 cents and 21.5 cents.

The rates on paperboards from Wash. to Madison, Menasha, and other points in Wisconsin intermediate to Eau Claire were higher than the rate to that latter point, and the rate to Milwaukee, although the haul is only 46 miles longer.

Defending railroads argued that all rates to Wisconsin and Minnesota points were too low.

The commission prescribed rates equal to 25 per cent of the first class rates established in both the Eastern and Western Trunk Line Rates, which become effective on February 1, 1931.

It also specified that the rates to Wisconsin points intermediate to Eau Claire, which include Madison and Menasha, would be unreasonable if they should exceed the rates to Eau Claire. The railroads were ordered to pay reparation for past shipments to the United States Board of Commerce.

Rates from Wash. to St. Paul were established equal but not exceeding her rate from Terre Haute to St. Paul.

Commissioner Lewis dissented from this opinion and decision, saying: "It is impossible for peace to reign in the paper industry so long as such variations exist in central territory, on the one hand, and the Fox River group and northern Wisconsin and Minnesota producing points, on the other."

He cited numerous illustrations of Fox River group rates being considerably lower than rates from and to other groups, for example the rate from Wash. to Chicago, 138 miles, on paperboards is 15.5 cents, while from the Fox River group to Chicago, 234 miles, the rate is also 15.5 cents. The rate on paperboards from Wash. to Chicago, 268 miles, is 20 cents (soon to be advanced to 21

COUNCIL AND CITY SUPERVISORS WILL DISCUSS HIGHWAY

Members to Decide on Attitude Toward Proposed Relocation

Kaukauna—Whether Kaukauna will go on record approving relocation of highway 41, which will take through Wrightstown, will be decided at a meeting of the common council Tuesday evening with the city supervisors from this city. The Outagamie county board has advocated the change and urges Kaukauna to adopt a resolution to the same effect.

Mayor B. W. Fargo has stated that he favors the change. At the council meeting, it was decided to ask the supervisors of Kaukauna to a joint meeting at which the project will be explained. Local supervisors are Sylvester Esler, John Lessen, Fred Reichel, William Powers and L. Meyer.

Brown county has approved the plan. The new route would change McCarthy's crossing about three and a half miles north of Kaukauna, follow through to Wrightstown and along the river to a point a few miles south of DePere. The new route would eliminate the dangerous crossing at McCarthy's crossing and the one a few miles south of DePere. The new road would pass near the sanatorium long the Fox river near DePere. Easy access would then be made to the sanatorium, Little Rapids and Wrightstown by passenger buses, which now do not pass through these places on present highway 41.

It is expected that several matters concerning paving will be discussed with the supervisors.

STATE DEATH RATE LOWER THAN NATION'S

Madison—(AP)—The state's death rate from the six most important diseases in 1929 was 65.1 per 100,000 population as compared with the nation's rate of 100 per 100,000, the state board of health announced today.

Although tuberculosis took 76 victims out of every 100,000 persons in the United States in 1929, there were only 55.2 per 100,000 in Wisconsin, the board said. Similarly the state's death rate for typhoid fever and paratyphoid was 1.4 per 100,000 as compared with 4.5 in the nation as a whole.

To the state's toxin antitoxin program was attributed a low rate of 2.8 per 100,000 in Wisconsin in 1929. The nation's rate was 6.5 per 100,000. Whooping cough, one of the most deadly enemies of young children, took only four lives per 100,000 population in Wisconsin as compared with the nationwide death rate of 6.3, the board said.

Wisconsin's dysentery death rate was only 7 as compared with the national rate of 24 and the state's rate for epidemic meningitis was as compared with the national rate of 4.5. Infant and maternal mortality in Wisconsin were 59.9 and 4.9 per 1,000 live births, respectively while in the nation the ratio was 67.3 and 7, the board said.

Father generally gets neckties for Christmas. Not that he's crazy about neckties. But the family just naturally puts off buying father's gifts until the last day. Then there's a grand rush, nobody can think what to get, the purchases are made on the spur of the moment—

And father gets neckties. That's it, nothing to do that Christmas shopping intelligently. Do it now—and father may get a better break.

NATIVE COW TOPS PRODUCTION MARK OF LOWER DOG TAX

Animal Produces 72.9 Lbs. of Butterfat and 1,518 Lbs. of Milk

Arnold F. Handschke, Hortonville, owned the cow which made the best record in the Ellington Outagamie Dairy Herd Improvement association in November. This animal, a native, which is a cross between a Guernsey bull and a Holstein cow, produced 1,518 pounds of milk, 72.9 pounds of fat, for an average test of 4.8 per cent.

The highest producing herd in the association is owned by Blonley and Blonley of New London. This is a herd of registered grade Guernseys which produced an average of 609 pounds of milk, 27.3 pounds of butterfat or an average of 4.48 per cent. Four cows in the herd were culled.

During the three years the high cow has been producing milk she has never fallen below a test of 4 per cent. During the last year she has maintained a test of 4.4 per cent. This cow is being fed ration of 12 pounds of grain, 15 pounds of silage, 15 pounds of alfalfa, 10 pounds of corn stalks, and 50 pounds of second crop alfalfa hay.

The following table gives names and records of the cows in the association which have produced more than 50 pounds of butterfat in November.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "SAGITTARIUS"

If December 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

For the young on this date, there will be unusual success in sports and social advancements. For the elderly, health maintained or improved. Travel, if at all possible, which will bring success or happiness. Considerable correspondence.

The child born on this December 16th will have a modest and retiring nature and will be inclined to withdraw within its shell, at times when it would be to its advantage to advertise its merits. It will be very honest, very sincere and very loyal. Whatever it does, will be done well.

You have a personality which can be fine, but to the world in general you are a sour, taciturn individual, doing ordinary things in ordinary ways. Your real humor, your friendliness, and your vitality, is not often exhibited outside of the walls of your own home, or in front of any but your most intimate associates. An inferiority complex and a lack of ambition are both guilty of holding you back and keeping you down. You do things well enough, and have brains enough, to handle bigger missions in life, but you do not realize your own capacities. You have too peaceful a nature to make much of a fighter.

You are extremely unselfish, generous to a fault, affectionate, and dependable. There is nothing vicious or evil about your mind or spirit, and you are a clean thinker and a clean liver. You never try to shift your burdens to other shoulders, although often carrying a load for some one else. You have too trusting a nature, and are often fooled in your judgment of other's characters. You are never twice fooled in the same place, however, and you will never remain any one's permanent door mat. There will be some unhappiness, on your part, if you marry, as you are inclined to put your loved one to a pedestal. It is not easy for you to forget, and you seldom forgive a wrong from which you have suffered.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN December 16th:

- 1—John Grimke—jurist.
 - 2—George Whitefield—one of the founders of Methodism.
 - 3—Stephen H. Thayer—banker and poet.
 - 4—Edward E. Barnard—astronomer.

CABBAGE GROWERS BUY NEW SEED AND ELECT OFFICERS

Phil Bixby Also Re-elected President of Appleton Association

By W. F. WINSEY

Despite the slippery roads and threatening weather, 150 members attended the annual meeting of the Appleton Cabbage Growers' association in the court house here Saturday afternoon. Most of the members bought cabbage seed for use next spring. Members who did not attend the meeting will have one more chance to get the seed at the court house on a day to be announced later by the directors.

Samples of perfect and faulty strains of cabbage were exhibited on tables in the court room. The samples were examined closely by the growers so that they might hereafter know what strains to avoid.

Phil Bixby was re-elected president of the association by the board of directors: William Schroeder, vice president; Matt Schaefer, secretary and treasurer. Directors re-elected are Albert Luebecke, William Schroeder, Anton Myse, Matt Schaefer, and Phil Bixby.

Authorized by a resolution, President Bixby appointed as an auditing committee, Otto Mossholder, chairman, Edward Miller, and George Schmitt.

Gus Sell, county agent, discussed a trip made by a committee of directors last fall through the cabbage-raising districts of southern Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York, Canada and Michigan. The county agent illustrated his talk with over 60 pictures. The purpose of the tour was to determine the condition of the cabbage crop.

Make Many Contacts

Over one hundred contacts were made by Mr. Sell before the cabbage tourists set out, including county agents, cabbage growers, cabbage dealers, cooperative marketing organizations, and agricultural colleges. Growers, county agents, dealers, heads of organizations, and specialists of colleges gave their time freely to the local committee.

In some of the cabbage districts on the line of the tour five counties in each of a few states are raising cabbage as compared with two counties in Wisconsin. In some of the cabbage districts more commercial fertilizer per acre is used than in Wisconsin, commonly a ton per acre, and a considerable proportion of the fertilizer is broadcast. For spraying cabbage some growers use four and eight row machines. Cultivation is about the same as in Wisconsin. For the better control of weeds, some of the growers check row their cabbage with hand planters.

The local committee was not overjoyed at any short or prolonged attempt investigated at the cooperative marketing of cabbage. Some cooperatives made a considerable success as long as a trained man did the marketing. Others had trouble. That came from members' selfishness of the cooperative hampering carload shipments in that way. Other cooperatives were hampered by dealers holding up cars in transit and sometimes flatly refusing to buy the product.

Mr. Sell presented an elaborate report on cabbage diseases and the control methods used in the territory through which the committee passed. The members of the committee, beside the county agent were Phil Bixby, president of the association; Matt Schaefer, secretary; and Phil Bixby also gave an account of the trip of the committee.

Other speakers that addressed the annual meeting were Albert Luebecke, director, Otto Mossholder, chairman of the auditing committee, and Matt Schaefer, secretary.

11 GIRLS CHOSEN ON COLLEGE DEBATE SQUAD

According to announcement made last week by Rexford S. Mitchell, 11 girls have been chosen for the Lawrence college women's debate squad from a group of approximately 20. The girls chosen are Madelyn Johnson, Ardis Elston, Lois Kloeber, Irma Molzow, Maxine Frazer, Lucille Schwartz, Imogene Perschbacher, Elizabeth Gosnell, Alice Mae Whitner, Alice Balgie and Dorothy Edwards.

A heavier schedule has been arranged this year than has been attempted for several years. Debates already arranged include contests with Northwestern University, University of Wisconsin, Marquette University, Beloit, Ripon, Carroll and Carleton. The question for the mid-west debates, Unemployment insurance, is the same question which the men will debate.

Trained Workers Direct Criminals Under Parole

BY JOHN H. HANNAN President, Board of Control, State of Wisconsin

The question of the fitness of a system of adult probation to the needs of State must be determined by the conditions within that State. Probation is a creature of law, and any law to be effective must be sustained by the public opinion of the community to which it applies.

Probation is merely a substitute for the prison. It is a form of punishment of the offender, and it should be applied under the same rule as is the punishment in cases where the offender is sent into a penal institution.

The probationer is equally guilty with the offender sent to a penal institution. He has offended against the same law. He is subject to the same penalties, but because of some judgment within himself, it is the judgment of the court that he shall be sent to an institution created to take the place of the prison or the reformatory. That is the theory of the Wisconsin law that has set up probation as a substitute for the prison and the reformatory in certain selected cases.

Three sections of the Wisconsin constitution provided for probation. One section covers the probation of minors. Another, the probation of adults guilty of a misdemeanor. Under these sections the court may place the offender on probation to some suitable person to be selected by the court or to the Board of Control.

This discussion does not concern itself with these sections, but only with probation under the section which provides that in cases of adults convicted for the first time of a felony and the punishment does not exceed 10 years, the court may withhold, or may impose and stay sentence, and place the person on probation.

When a person is placed on probation the custody of the probationer vests in a State Board of Control, which then has control and manages him under the same rules as apply to persons paroled from the prison or reformatory.

The Wisconsin law with respect to paroled prisoners provides: (a) That they shall be paroled, if eligible, only when suitable employment is secured; (b) that they must render written reports at least once a month; (c) that they must account for their earnings and their expenditures; (d) that they must remain in legal custody and may be reimprisoned on order of the Board of Control.

This last is an important provision. Paroled men are not free men. They are prisoners with permission to work outside of the prison in such places and under the conditions prescribed by the Board.

So, too, with those on probation. If they violate the terms of probation the Board of Control can order immediate imprisonment under the court order fixing the sentence, or if sentence of imprisonment was withheld, then the probationer can be returned to the court for sentence which shall then be imposed without further stay.

No law is self-enforcing. Wisconsin made the mistake of assuming its probation law would be self-enforcing. It was enacted in 1909. One probation officer was appointed to serve 71 counties, covering an area of 53,000 square miles and serving a population of 2,900,000. The mere statement of that situation shows that it was farcical to attempt to serve the courts with such an inadequate force. This farce continued until the close of the year 1925. In the meantime this one officer was given an assistant half-time employee.

That was the situation, when, in 1925, the State reorganized this Department. We moved carefully in our reorganization. We recognized that we could not attract to our force at that time men of the caliber we desired. We slowly raised our standards until at the present time Wisconsin requires that its probation officers be selected not only upon the basis of their personality, but that they shall have special training for the work.

The task of the probation officer is most exacting. His work of reclaiming delinquents demands a high order of mental ability, supplemented by special training upon the foundation of a university education or its equivalent. The principles and standards to be applied to this work must be thoroughly understood by those who engage in it and the better the educational equipment of these men

Your Question And Its Answer

Under a State system, with power in the board of administration to reprobation whom the Board finds unfit, the courts will scrutinize with greater care those who ask for probation. This is true especially because of the Wisconsin requirement compelling the court to state its reasons for granting the order.

The Wisconsin system is unique among American Commonwealths. In 1925 the State Board of Control of Wisconsin in cooperation with the National Probation Association had a survey made of the Wisconsin system as it then operated. The system was condemned and a recommendation was made that it be abandoned and that Wisconsin go to the system of operation where probation officers were named by the courts and that all that the State should do would be to provide a supervising officer whose principle duty was to be a propagandist among the counties for the establishing of county probation.

No change was made in the law, but there was a change made in the manner and method of administration and today, in so far as I know practically all of the opposition to the system which existed in 1925 has melted away and some of the very men who pleaded with the Legislature at that time to change the system are firm in the conviction that

Green Bay Packers Win Second Professional Football Title

PLAY 6-6 TIE WITH PORTSMOUTH ELEVEN IN SEASON'S FINALE

Forward Pass, Lewellen to Engleman, Gives Bays Only Touchdown

FINAL STANDING

PORTSMOUTH, 0.—The Green Bay Packers won their second consecutive National Professional Football league championship by holding the Portsmouth Spartans to a 6 to 6 tie here today.

Portsmouth was the underdog when the kickoff whistle blew, but the Spartans met the 1929 champions on even terms, and if a pass from Lumpkin, which Joseph caught beyond the goal line, had not been ruled out of bounds, the Spartans would have emerged victors.

Both cautious at start. Both sides played a cautious punting game as the first period opened and waited for breaks which never came. Late in the period the Packers started a march from their 35 yard line to the Spartans' 10 yard line. With fourth down and ten yards to go, Lewellen passed to Engleman, who ran across for the first score. Dunn's try for goal was wide.

In the second period Portsmouth came from midfield to the 13 yard line and Lumpkin passed to Joseph over the goal line. The latter caught the toss, but was a few inches out of bounds and the ball went to Green Bay. After an exchange of punts the Spartans began another march from their own 30 yard line with Lewis, Lumpkin and Bennett carrying the ball. Bennett went around left end to the 10 yard line and Lewis missed his place kick for the extra point.

Lewellen Leads Attack
Lewellen led a series of line bucks and passes which drove Portsmouth back to its own 12 yard line before the half ended. Fleckenstein, substituting for Bradwood, ended this threat at Portsmouth's goal by intercepting a pass from Lewellen.

Portsmouth was deep in Green Bay territory twice in the second half and Green Bay threatened once, but in each case a scoring punch was lacking.

Green Bay made 11 first downs and Portsmouth counted nine.

MARQUETTE QUINT WILL BATTLE PITT

Eight Veterans from Last Year's Championship Team With Invaders

Milwaukee.—Marquette university cagers jump up against what possibly may be their stiffest competition of the season, Wednesday night, Dec. 17, when they meet the University of Pittsburgh quintet in the Milwaukee auditorium.

Pitt's great offensive combination, minus Hyatt, L. Cohen and Zehms of last year's team, will provide a merry evening for the Marquette quint now being developed by Bill Chandler, the old Wisconsin all-western, who is new to the Hilltop team this season. The Panthers again are coached by Dr. H. C. (Red) Carlson, whose teams have won 107 games and lost 41. In every year but 1924-25 under Coach Carlson, the easterners have won the Big Four title.

Eight veterans from last year's Pittsburgh team remain. Men who helped the Panthers to defeat Indiana, Northwestern, Iowa, Ohio State, Nebraska, Montana State, Carnegie, Notre Dame, Georgetown, Army and many other great teams will be on hand in the battle with Marquette. In their coming invasion of the west, Doc Carlson's netters are meeting Ohio State, Marquette, Nebraska and Creighton.

Coach Chandler of Marquette is expected to have at least two sophomores—Joe Fitzgerald, forward and Tuffy Ronzani, guard, in the starting lineup against Pitt. Francis McElligott, forward; Whitt Budrunas, center and Capt. Joe King, guard, veterans, probably will round out the Blue and Gold combination.

NATURAL POSTURE BEST FOR STANCE
THERE is not one golfer in the world who has not at some time thought how fine it would be if he could swing the ball as freely and as smoothly as he swings at a dandelion or a piece of paper lying on the grass. Some, indeed, do not even then have the graceful and effective appearance to others which they conceive themselves to have, but there is no denying, except in the case of expert, that the practice is, almost always, by far the better of the two. And the player himself senses and admits this difference, often recognizes the reason, yet fails to understand that there is a sensible way to gradually overcome it.

Most people accept it as one of those things which must be suffered. The necessity for the existence of the difference is lamented, accepted and we pass on. The entire business is attributed to a mental condition, a sense of responsibility, anxiety, fear, or what not which sets up a tension that cannot be overcome.

This much is true, but it is so happens that it is only a part of the story. The difference in the state of mind of the player when taking a practice swing and when playing actual stroke is easily understood and its effect appreciated, but what is neither understood nor appreciated is that the elimination or omission of some of the frills of the actual stroke which are not present in the practice swing may work a complete change. The expert is not afraid of the ball because he has learned to have confidence in his ability to hit it.

Avoid Tenseness
Watch a moderately good average golfer take a practice swing preparatory to making a shot. He swings the club easily, rhythmically throughout and a commendable relaxation. The stance is always conservative and comfortable—one into which he has stepped naturally without any fuss or bother. Now watch him as he steps up to the ball. He first sets his feet wide apart — at least farther apart than they were before. That is to assure good balance and a firm footing. Then he begins to waggle and the more he waggles the more he bends over the ball and the more tense he becomes. Instead of sensing the proper position or of falling naturally into a comfortable one, he attempts to set himself before the ball with perfect accuracy, attempting to see that everything is placed just so.

I have no quarrel with anyone for taking pains with a shot and for making certain that he is ready to play before he starts the swing. But most golfers lose sight of the fact that in the first position it is ease and comfort that are to be found and that a strained or unnatural posture was never intended by anyone.

Things To Avoid
The general criticism which are to be made of the average player's posture at address are that his feet are too far apart, his body is bent too much and his arms are extended too far. These are the commonest faults and every one of them is unnatural. The natural way to stand is with the feet separated but not set wide apart; the natural bend of the body is very slight, with the weight more back on the heels and never entirely on the toes; and the natural position of the arms is hanging almost straight down, close in to the body.

It is very rare that tension is observed in a practice swing; and this is so because the player, not feeling the necessity of being entirely correct, comes closer to assuming a natural posture. Let him take this naturalness into the actual shot; let him simplify his preliminary motions as much as possible; and let him start the ball on its way without hurry yet without setting himself on point before it like a fine dog on a cover of quail. In this way he can go a long way on the physical side towards overcoming the undesirable mental processes which arise when the responsibility of hitting the ball confronts him. Mental tension, that is, keenness, never does any harm when it is accompanied by physical relaxation. (Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WISCONSIN CAGERS DEFEAT CARROLL PIONEERS, 17-14

Badgers Show Surprising Defense in Downing Waukesha Collegians

MADISON.—The University of Wisconsin made its first appearance of the season in regular competition Saturday night and defeated a surprisingly strong Carroll college team, 17 to 14. The game was hard fought and in the second half became exceedingly rough.

Wisconsin's excellence in floor work accounted for the victory, as the Badgers maneuvered into position for far more shots than the Pioneers had. The active Carroll defensive men, however, rushed the Badgers shooters, and Wisconsin was able to score but eight field goals out of its many opportunities.

Wisconsin took the lead in the first few minutes of play when Steen scored a field goal. Carroll never led although the Badgers margin was never large enough to be safe. The score at the half was 8 to 7.

Taken all in all, there was more in Wisconsin's showing to be pleased with than to criticize. The ball handling was exceptional for early in the season and many of the Pioneers' offensive gestures were nipped at the start when a Badger intercepted the ball.

Wisconsin's defense kept Carroll far from the basket in the second half and the two field goals counted in the first period by the Waukesha team came when Hinchley fired from long range. In the second period when the play was rougher and a bit freer, Wisconsin's defense was lax until the Carroll assault neared the basket. Then the Pioneers were rushed and their shots went astray.

COBB FINALLY GETS GOOSE SENT TO HIM VIA AIR 2 YEARS AGO

Angusta, Ga.—(P)—Ty Cobb had a wild goose today that was sent southward two years ago by his friend Jack Miner at Kingsville, Ontario.

The goose however, was not sent to Cobb. It was simply turned loose with a legend on which was inscribed the details of its release and a biblical quotation, "Be not afraid; only believe." The goose was shot near here by a party of hunters including Jack Rountree, McAlpine Rucker, and Charles Pilcher. The hunters, learning of the friendship between Cobb and Miner, presented the bird to the famous Angustan.

Miner was notified.

Two Charity Grid Games Net Unemployed $750,000

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK.—(P)—Footballs didn't snap in the east added something like three-quarters of a million dollars to the fund for the needy over the weekend. To the approximate $800,000 earned by the Army-Navy game at the Yankee Stadium Saturday was added another $150,000 yesterday when the New York Giants of the National Professional football league, defeated Knute Rockne's Notre Dame All-Stars, 22 to 0, before 50,000 excited spectators at the Polo Grounds. Final financial figures on the two games were not available but it was estimated they would reveal profits not in excess of $750,000.

The Giants' victory over Rockne's aggregation was a triumph of teamwork over a somewhat disorganized group of individual stars. In the All-Stars lineup at various intervals were such figures as the "Four Horsemen," Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden, as well as Frank Cardozo and Buck O'Connor of the 1930 Notre Dame team, Jack Bauer, Ted Twomey, Adam Walsh, Ike Voedsich, John Law, Tim Moynihan, Jack Chevigny, Jack Cannon and many another South Bend heroes of the past.

But this collection of notables at no time was able to cope with the brilliant offense and rugged defense of the Giants, one of the best pro outfits in the game. Benny Friedman, Michigan's former all-America quarterback, scored two touchdowns for the Giants and was a constant threat every minute he was in the game.

There seemed to be more enthusiasm in this crowd of 50,000 than here was in the 70,000 that saw the Army nose out the Navy, 6-0, Saturday. Army clearly deserved to win, making 12 first downs to three for the Navy, but it took a twisting dash of 57 yards by Ray Stoecker to give the Cadets the only touchdown of the game in the fourth period.

Of more interest, perhaps, was the possible effect this game might have on future athletic relations between the two governing academies which split over eligibility rules after the 1927 football game.

The consensus was that this game would have no effect whatever on the differences between the two schools. When the game was arranged spokesmen for both stressed that the controversy was held in abeyance only long enough to permit the same to be played for charity. Neither academy has shown a disposition at any time to recede from the stand taken when athletic relations were broken.

BEARS AND CARDS PLAY INDOOR GAME

Chicago.—(P)—The Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals will play a full-sized gridiron tonight in their charity football game at the Chicago stadium.

Under rules agreed upon by officials of the clubs, the ball must be moved back 20 yards at some time before the middle of the field has been reached, to make possible a regulation drive for a score. The kickoffs will be made from the goal lines. Place kicks and drop kicks have been ruled out.

Immediately after last night's National league hockey game workmen started melting the ice and draining the floor, preparatory to moving dirt enough for approximately 47,500 square feet of playing surface about six inches deep.

The net proceeds, expected to reach $10,000, will be given to Gov. Hammond's unemployment commission.

Center Leads Aggies
Captaining the Texas Aggies basketball quintet this season is C. T. Hoke, pivot man who won all-conference honors last season and was voted the most valuable player to the squad. Although only a six-footer, Hoke was not outmanned by a single foe all last season.

Charles Murphy, Purdue's star center of the past three years, will play basketball with the Chicago Bulls, professional team, this year.

BANKERS DEFEATED
BANKERS in the industrial basketball league of the Y. M. C. A. got their first thrill of the season Saturday night when the O. R. Kloehe company team defeated the Bankers in a close battle, 23 and 22. The other game on the evening's card resulted in a 23 and 16 victory for Fox River Paper company team with the Coated Paper five the losers.

The Bankers stepped out to a lead over the Kloehe's in the feature attraction, and with each of the boys on the quint hitting the hoop, had the score at 15 and 10 for the Bankers. The Kloehe's started going places in the second half, however, and with Hecker, center, leading the scoring, ran the count to 23 points while the Bankers were doing their best to make free throws tie up the score by the final whistle. Each team scored nine field goals, the difference in the scoring being on free throws.

Ray Tormow was the big ball and hoop man for the Fox River Paper company in its win over the Coated quintet. Tormow barged ten field goals and one free throw during the evening's toll, six goals coming in the first half and four in the second. Hollenbeck at center for Coated was his team's biggest threat but he failed to keep up the pace set by Tormow.

EASTERN SQUAD FOR CHARITY GAME READY

Leave for Coast Tomorrow to Play in Annual Shrine Benefit Game

Evanston, Ill.—(P)—The eastern delegation of football players who will join midwestern stars against the far west in the annual Shrine benefit game at San Francisco, Dec. 27, converged on Evanston today. Coach Andy Kerr, of Colgate, in charge of the Atlantic seaboard group, had 12 men with him, while Dick Hanley of Northwestern had ten lined up today. The eastern backs are: Hart and Macaulay, Colgate; Gardner, Villanova; Fowley, Brown and Baker, Pittsburgh. Line-men are Vincent and Linehan, Yale; Doyle, Colgate; Bates, Western Maryland; Rosenzweig, Carnegie Tech, and Siano, Fordham.

Midwestern backs named are Wheeler, Michigan; Bruder, Northwestern. Brockmeyer, Minnesota. Line-men are Woodworth and Baker, Northwestern; Gantenbein and Gubratovich, Wisconsin; Ely, Iowa; Seiby, Ohio State, and Van Bibber, Purdue. The squad will receive equipment at Northwestern tomorrow and hold one practice in Dyche stadium before leaving tomorrow night for the coast.

JACK PRICE NAMED ARMY GRID LEADER

New Captain Is One of Youngest Men Ever to Lead West Point

West Point, N. Y.—(P)—Army's customary welcome to a victorious football team was missing when the Cadet eleven reached here after its triumph over the Navy.

Plans had been made for an elaborate reception but they had to be abandoned when the team arrived yesterday shortly after noon while the rest of the corps was in the mess hall. An enthusiastic cheer for the team when the players trooped into the hall was the only organized celebration.

On the return trip from New York the letter men of the team elected Jack Price of Fort Dodge, Iowa, captain of the 1931 eleven. Price has been regular left tackle for the past two years and played all through the game.

The new captain, who is 6 feet 33 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds, also has won his letter in track as a shot put

BROWNE DEMANDS EARLY HEARING ON SUBSTITUTE BILL

Would Prohibit Use of Oleomargarine in Government Hospitals

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington — Hearings before Christmas on his bill prohibiting the use of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes in government hospitals, soldiers' homes, and other charitable institutions supported by federal funds was demanded by Rep. Edward E. Browne of Wisconsin in a letter sent (Monday) to Rep. Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa, chairman of the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture.

Charging that 121,297 pounds of oleomargarine and butterine were used during the fiscal year 1929 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the Insane here and that the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers in Maine, Virginia, and Illinois use no butter whatever, Rep. Browne characterized federal use of butter substitutes in such institutions as an "outrage" to the sick, insane, and aged fed such foods, and an "insult to the farmer."

The 11 national soldiers' homes, he said, use some 502,497 pounds of butter substitutes and only 1,356 pounds of butter annually.

"If we desire to help the farmer," Rep. Browne's letter said, "we can do it in no more practical way than to protect his products from counterfeits. Our one and one-half million dairy farmers are producing a product of tremendous food value and healthgiving qualities.

"They have never tried to raise the price of this product beyond a modest profit. You cannot buy a pound of any other food, no matter what it is, with the food value that a pound of butter has for double the cost of butter."

Prohibit Use Now

Wisconsin, New York, California, Iowa, Minnesota, and Washington prohibit the use of butter substitutes in any state institution, and Michigan prohibits their use in all public institutions except penal institutions, he pointed out.

"The government's sincerity in its efforts to aid the farmer can be seriously questioned," Rep. Browne continued, "if it purchases hundreds of thousands of pounds of oleomargarine and butter substitutes to be used as food in veterans' homes and hospitals when its own experts testify that these imitations are greatly inferior to the dairy products which these substitutes replace."

"The manufacturers of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes capitalize the fact that the United States government purchases large quantities of oleomargarine and butter substitutes and uses the same in its hospitals and veterans' homes in place of butter."

Rep. Browne's bill would require that no butter substitutes be used in any National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers or in any Naval or Army hospital or any charitable institution supported by federal funds.

SEEK QUAKE-PROOF BUILDING BY STUDY

Engineers Experiment to Find Structures Which Will Withstand Shock

Washington — (P) — Government aid in obtaining practical information on the action of earthquakes, needed in the designing of shock-proof buildings, is to be sought by the American engineering council.

The coast and geodetic survey has secured a program for extensive study in the field which has the approval of engineers.

Precise knowledge of earthquake motion and force is "urgently needed," says John R. Freeman, of Providence, R. I., in a report to the council on a world survey of shock-resisting architecture.

"In the United States there is a growing realization of the great importance of making researches in earthquake matters because of their importance to safety of life and property," Freeman said.

The engineers' problem, he says, is to provide far greater strength and rigidity than is required simply to prevent the building from being toppled over.

The framework must be so designed that its distortion under stress will be so small that interior plastered walls will not be badly cracked and partitions of hollow tile crushed.

Stone and bricks used in exterior veneering must be anchored so strongly, he says, they will not become detached and fall on the heads of people below.

ADD 2 MORE WORKERS TO POST OFFICE STAFF

Two substitute parcel post carriers were added to the staff at the Appleton postoffice Monday morning to assist in handling Christmas mail. Postal officials expect the biggest rush will start about Wednesday of this week when more men will be put to work. Many applications for work have already been received at the postoffice and the extra help will be chosen from this list.

Vice President's Dinner Featured Social Program

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—The vice president's dinner for the president and the White House Judicial reception made last week official in the National capital.

Young Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette made two official and social debuts of her own last week. Tuesday she attended her first Senate Ladies Luncheon, and Wednesday she poured at the tea given by Mrs. Porter H. Dale, president of the Congressional Club, at the Club in honor of Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes.

Mrs. Thomas Riley Marshall, wife of the late Vice-President, was a guest of the Senate Ladies. Tuesday, and brought back memories of the organization of this official group during the war. In that time of emergency, Mrs. Marshall asked all the wives of the Senators to meet weekly in the Senate Office building to do Red Cross work. After their work, they remained for a simple picnic-lunch luncheon.

Out of this informal beginning grew the formal organization that meets for weekly luncheons during the session of Congress. Now the "depression" has brought back pre-luncheon hours of work for the ever busy Red Cross.

Mrs. John J. Blaine of Boscobel attended to see her fellow members welcome the new Wisconsin member. And young Mrs. LaFollette was not the only Senate bride at the luncheon—Mrs. Reed Smoot of Utah also attended.

Wisconsin even in Africa! Miss Janet Esch, formerly of Sparta and niece of John J. Esch of LaCrosse, is now sight-seeing in that fascinating continent. When she returns from her trip with the Frank Frasers, the Nile pyramids, and camels will be old stories to her as will all the thrills of Paris, her first stop abroad. Her hosts are planning a trip around the world, but Miss Esch does not expect to accompany them on the entire trip.

The play certainly seems to have been the thing in Washington for the last few weeks.

Week before last, George Bernard Shaw's "Apple Cart" claimed great attention and greater applause. Among the Wisconsin people attending were Mrs. John C. Schafer, wife of Rep. Schafer of Milwaukee; Rep. and Mrs. Edward E. Browne of Waukegan, and Dr. and Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton. They all enjoyed it tremendously.

THEATRICAL PRODUCER HURT IN ACCIDENT

New York—(P)—Daniel Frohman, theatrical producer, was in a hospital today with an injured shoulder, treated in an emergency operation yesterday.

Dr. George Schwartz, who performed the operation, declined to reveal the cause of the injury but said his patient's condition was satisfactory and that his recovery practically was assured. He is 75.

Several newspapers said the producer was struck by a taxicab while en route to the apartment of Miss Fannie Hurst, the writer. He was taken to the Park East hospital and put on the operating table at once.

Mr. Frohman was to have been the guest of honor at a dinner of the National Arts club last night.

BILL PROVIDES FOR WAR VETERANS' AID

Schneider Measure Would Give All Soldiers Chance to Enter Hospital

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Rep. George J. Schneider has introduced a bill to provide for the hospitalization of discharged veterans of the Army and Navy, and Marine Corps suffering from tuberculosis contracted in line of duty, whether their discharges were honorable or dishonorable.

This is really the re-introduction of a bill which perished in the Naval Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives during the last session of this Congress. However, Rep. Schneider has amended his bill to include veterans of the Army. The bill as originally introduced provided only for the Navy and Marine Corps.

This bill, in some form or other, has been before the House of Representatives since 1927, when Rep. Schneider introduced an individual bill to provide for the hospitalization of Carl O. Bujaek of Green Bay, a dishonorable discharged veteran of the Navy who was suffering from tuberculosis. Despite his dishonorable discharge from his last service, Bujaek had served several other terms and had received honorable discharge from them. He is now living on the West Coast in very poor health but barred from government hospitals because of his dishonorable discharge.

In June, 1929, Rep. Schneider submitted the bill in general form to the 70th Congress, and re-introduced it into the 71st. Considerable expense is necessitated by the bill, and the Department returned an unfavorable report concerning it, partly because it didn't wish any added expense not to be incurred by its rival, the Army.

As a matter of fact the stock market is not considered nowadays a reflection of anything but current day-by-day happenings in the financial world because many lines of business are improving or have adjusted themselves for a better state of affairs in 1931.

The full effect of the stabilization process which has been going on for several weeks probably will not be felt immediately but there is a feeling here that business has girded itself to the task energetically.

The problem of how to absorb the number of unemployed still remains unsolved however and for the moment the work of the emergency employment committee here are directed toward preventing an increase in unemployment. The tendency of many companies is to curtail employment rather than pay losses from reserves, but efforts are being made to persuade these same businesses either to retain their employees or to care for them.

Situation Improves

There is no doubt that the situation today is considered much improved over that of several weeks ago. The psychology of the public is sometimes difficult to analyze particularly in view of conflicting reports. In this connection a quotation from a magazine article written in 1932 just after the depression of that period by Eugene Meyer, Jr., who was then managing director of the War Finance corporation, and who is now the new governor of the Federal Reserve board, is well worth reproducing:

"In general, pessimism follows and does not precede untoward events. Pessimism is rampant after a disaster; optimism precedes it. But to listen to the pessimists, one would think that the prophet of evil was recording them by his emotional reactions. It once could plot the curves of optimism and pessimism as exactly as one can plot the curves of prices and the volume of production and consumption, one would find that they follow considerably behind the material conditions. Only the few anticipate events; the many stop, look, and listen after the event is passed."

Unemployed Need Work, Not Money, Says Kohler

BY GOV. W. J. KOHLER

Madison — Jobs for the unemployed, rather than gifts of money, will do more than anything else at this time to bring the nation out of the business depression.

It is the responsibility of all industries and employers to provide full-time or reasonable part-time employment for their forces, as this is even more important than "operating a business profitably" in this time of depression.

The best and most lasting service to the unemployed is to find jobs for them. Revival of the nation of public and private construction, maintenance, and modernization of homes and business structures offer the most immediate hope for practical results.

Many industries, not all, can undoubtedly take on more people at the present time—if not in regular production, then in maintenance work or in preparation for resuming normal operations later on.

In the business of the Kohler company at Kohler, Wisconsin, of which I am active head, we have for many years maintained employment and wages for our full force of 4,000 men. This has been accomplished through our policy in slack times of accumulating heavy inventories—for which we maintain large warehouses.

Not only must industry provide jobs for the unemployed, but many people who are able to make purchases must resume their normal standards of living and expenditures. If buying was restored to normal and the channels of trade thus opened up, production would be quite promptly stimulated, bringing about a vast improvement in industrial employment.

In seeking a solution of our unemployment problem, we must not overlook the rural sections. They also have people out of work. Therefore, in organizing for unemployment relief, it is important that the needs of people in the country districts, be given due consideration, particularly because it is likely to be more difficult to provide work immediately in rural neighborhoods than in the cities.

My viewpoint on unemployment, then, is based on the good old axiom of helping others to help themselves.

My appeal is to employers rather than givers, though, of course, for the immediate present those are necessary as well.

BADGER MEMORIAL URGES ACTION ON WORLD COURT BILL

Wisconsin Jurists and Professors Want United States to Adopt Plan

Madison —(P)—A memorial signed by jurists and members of the University of Wisconsin faculty and urging prompt and favorable action on the World Court protocol which the president has submitted to the senate has been sent to Wisconsin's representatives in the U. S. senate. The memorial reads as follows:

"Since participation by the United States in the maintenance of the permanent court of international justice, now successfully operating for over eight years, has been favored by four successive presidents and has been approved by the house of representatives in 1925 and by the senate in 1926 and has received the endorsement of the American Bar Association and the Wisconsin Bar Association and is in accord with both the past practice of the United States in encouraging the establishment of means of peaceful international disputes and also with its recent undertaking in the Kellogg-Briand pact of Paris that their settlement 'shall never be sought except by pacific means.'

"The undersigned citizens of Wisconsin, past or present members of the faculty of the law school of the University of Wisconsin, urge the member of the committee on foreign relations, the whole body of senators and especially the senators from Wisconsin to take prompt action concerning this long pending and exhaustively considered step in the direction of international legal order and to give their advice and consent to the ratification of the court protocols signed by the United States last year and now submitted by the president for final approval by the senate.

The signers of the memorial are C. S. Randall, W. E. Page, R. Brown, W. G. Rice, Jr., Malcolm P. Sharp, Howard L. Hall, A. L. Gausewitz, Nathan P. Feinsinger and Richard V. Campbell, all of the law school; Marvin B. Rosenberry, chief justice of the state supreme court; Justice John D. Wickham and former Justice Burr W. Jones; and Frank T. Boessel, Milwaukee; John E. Sanborn, Madison; Oliver H. Miller, Madison; Maxwell H. Herrriott, Milwaukee; Emmert E. Wingert, Madison; Harold M. Wilkie, Madison all attorneys.

London —(P)—Showing the trek from English farms to the cities, the ministry of agriculture announced that 102,400 fewer farm workers are registered today than in 1921 when 838,900 were on the lists.

Dr. O'Keefe's office now open.

Alleged Slayer Begs Forgiveness

Held in jail at Crown Point, Ind., where he and four companions are charged with murdering Arlene Draves, Gary high school girl, at a gin party, Virgil Kirkland, shown here has broken down, is unable to eat or sleep and blames liquor for the tragedy. He has repeatedly begged Arlene's father for forgiveness, and says that he and the girl were to have been married. This picture was taken as the boy awaited action of a coroner's jury in the case.

Teachers Are Kept Busy Dressing Up Children

When one, two or three youngsters have been mitted and rubbed and shipped off to school, Mother still has pep enough to stand at the window and wave. When 40 youngsters have been buttoned and tied and herded out to recess, or home to lunch, the kindergarten teacher hasn't enough snap left to breathe a sigh of relief.

Rubbers that are too tight, gashers that won't go on or off without a struggle, coats that fit too snug in the sleeves, and sweaters with neck openings too small for the head all combine to make the donning of wraps a big job. Youngsters take their clothing seriously, and a struggle with a tight rubber or a button that won't button often results in a deluge of childish tears.

Kindergarten teachers suggest that parents buy rubbers and gashers for the youngsters large enough so the child can slip them on and off himself, for a child is never so happy as when he can do something for himself. Buttons on coats that fasten easily would greatly decrease the worries of the kindergarten teacher also.

Woolen mittens instead of finger gloves or leather gloves with elastic or buttons are advised. Woolen mittens, say the teachers, are warmer, and dry without stiffening when snow men are the diversion of the day. Gloves with elastic at the wrist are objectionable as they are hard to pull on and off, and many interfere with circulation. Attaching the gloves to a piece of tape to be run through the sleeves of the coat prevents loss.

Children's clothes are so standardized that mothers should realize that in a group of 40 children from six to 12 galoshes, coats, caps and gloves may be identical. Putting the child's name on his coat, hat and galoshes in ink on adhesive tape—can eliminate many a wild scramble for a lost hat or rubber. The entire name should be written, as initials mean nothing to the younger children.

EDISON COMPANY AT CHICAGO IS LARGE UTILITY

Stocks and Bonds Have Long Enjoyed High Investment Rating

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
(Editor's Note: This is the tenth of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York—Serving the City of Chicago the Commonwealth Edison company is said to be the largest steam power electric enterprise in the world. With a well-balanced capital structure both in bonds and its stocks have long enjoyed a high investment rating. In fact the bonds are such conservative holdings that they sell on a basis to yield only about 4 1/2 per cent. The principal public interest centers in the stock, which is of one class $100 par, and of standing to the amount of $141,990,000, a stock which, however, has never been a speculative favorite.

The primary market for Commonwealth Edison is in Chicago although the stock is traded in on the New York Curb. Dividends have been paid without interruption at one rate or another since the organization of the company in 1907, the present rate being $8.00 annually. As with other prosperous operating public utilities the stock sells in the market to give a small return if only the cash dividend is taken into account. The explanation lies, of course, in the value of the rights to furnish new capital extended to shareholders periodically.

In the last seven years, that is to say from 1924 to 1930 inclusive, rights to subscribe to new stock at par have been offered to stockholders six times. If these rights were sold in the open market at the lowest quoted price the additional income over those seven years would have averaged $6.32 a share. Adding this sum to the cash dividend the total return annually would have been $14.32 a share and capitalizing this amount at 5 per cent we reach a price for the stock of $288 a share.

As a matter of fact in 1924 the first of the years we have taken for this calculation, the stock never sold higher than $137 a share so that

APPLETON TEACHER ENROLLED FOR TOUR

Miss Elele Ackermann, a teacher in Appleton, is one of the 350 persons registered for the holiday tour to Florida arranged by Fond du Lac school officials. The tour, which is to cost $65, will leave Fond du Lac on Dec. 26 and returns one week later.

Investors who bought at the high seven years ago and who have sold their rights as received regularly have had an extraordinary return on their investment. Whether this record will be equalled in the future depends first on the rate of growth of the corporation and second on the spread between the market price of the stock and the price at which new shares are offered.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
